Strike Puts Hoboes on Their Feet

There are no rods to ride, so ties on E & N right-of-way have become an unimpeded trail for the kings of the open road. A discerning client of freight travel, the hobo has been lowered to the same position as the coach traveller: left without CPR transportation for duration of nation-wide strike of the railroad brotherhood. —(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Stern Warning

Lumber Layoffs Looming

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stern warning that mass layoffs in British Columbia's forestry industry may occur unless full co-operation is exercised by management, labor and government, was given here Saturday by a prominent lumberman.

L. L. G. Bentley, vice-president of Canadian Forest Products and former president of the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association, said in an interview:

"The lumber situation is so perilous today that everyone concerned should concentrate his efforts on keeping it operating.

He said neither management, labor nor government should get "crazy ideas about profits, wages or income from stumpage charges."

Mr. Bentley said the big problem facing the industry is in export. At least 50 cents of every dollar earned in B.C. comes from the forest industry but to operate at full capacity the industry must export 80 per cent of its production.

VERY DOUBTFUL

"Today," he said, "it is very doubtful that we will be able to maintain this percentage."

"We can't pay the highest wages, the highest freight rates and the highest stumpage prices and be competitive in our traditional market overseas."

He said the United Kingdom market was falling off badly and freight rates are "fantastic."

The former "enormously important" U.S. market had also slowed considerably due to credit restrictions in that country which has restricted housing construction.

"It may be that everybody will have to take less," said Mr. Bentley. "The important thing is to keep everybody eating."

. . . dies of injuries

First Fatalities Of New Year

BY TED HARRIS

Death from traffic accidents struck twice here yesterday.

Golden-haired, three-year-old Michelle Elliott died in St. Joseph's Hospital at about 4 p.m. from injuries received in a traffic accident Thursday in Saanich.

Well-known city sportsman John William Youson, 76, of 748 Esquimalt Road, was killed in an accident just about two hours later in Victoria West.

Both were pedestrians. Their deaths were the first and second traffic fatalities for the Greater Victoria area this year—coming before the first week of 1957 was complete.

Mr. Youson was crossing Esquimalt Road west of Rothwell from north to south, apparently in the crosswalk, when he was struck by a car driven by Belton Frank Turner, 5021 Santa Clara, at 6.20 p.m.

The popular soccer enthusiast and ex-customs officer was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital. He is survived by his neyhew, Harry Youson, 875 Richmond; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Youson, 748 Esquimalt Road, and several nieces and nephews.

"He was coming over to our place like he does every night," the nephew said. "He must have been going to catch the bus."

"Everyone liked him," said a colleague in the customs office, where Mr. Youson worked for 35 years.

HELPED YOUTH

Helping young people was one of his specialties, friends said. He was manager of the Victoria West Football Club for 20 years and took keen interest in all sports.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by McCall's Funeral Home tomorrow.

JOHN YOUSON

Little Michelle Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Elliott, 614 Baker, suffered a fractured skull in an accident Thursday. She fought for her life for nearly two days after undergoing lengthy brain surgery immediately after the accident.

She was struck by a car driven by Mark R. Knisley, 869 Parklands Drive, Esquimalt.

Airliner Crashes

NEW YORK (AP) — American Airlines reported early today it has information that one of its twin-engine convair planes with 10 persons aboard "crashed outside of Tulsa, Oklahoma."

"That's all we know," said an airline official.

The plane, Flight 327, originated in Boston, the airline said, with stops at New York's LaGuardia Field and Syracuse, N.Y., before it headed west. Aboard were several passengers and a crew of three, the airline said.

By Crushing Revolt

'Reds Ended War Danger'

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev declared yesterday on his return from Budapest that Soviet intervention in Hungary "probably prevented a third world war," it was reported today.

A communique disclosed the Communist party secretary and former Premier Georgi Malenkov attended a major policy conference with party and governments heads of Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Czechoslovakia in Budapest Jan. 1-4.

Khrushchev appeared last night at an East German diplomatic reception. Western correspondents were barred, but East German reporters quoted him as saying:

"Many people who now are objecting to Soviet actions will thank the Soviet Union one day for its decisive measures."

"ALL IN ORDER"

Khrushchev added that "everything is in order" now in Hungary.

Asked what would happen to Hungarian intellectuals, who with the youth are considered the most restive elements in the revolt-torn country, Khrushchev replied:

"I understand it's difficult for intellectuals because they cannot understand the real situation. We should be very moderate with them."

Khrushchev conceded Hungarian workers took part in the uprising but insisted it should be considered a counterrevolution.

Since the Hungarian revolution broke out last October, various Soviet leaders, including Khrushchev himself, have been reported in Hungary. Tonight's statement was the first direct confirmation that any top-level Kremlin leader had been in Budapest since the Soviet forces helped establish a pro-Moscow government there.

UN GROUP ARRIVES

Meanwhile in Budapest a UN economic mission to study Hungary's relief needs is operating under secrecy.

Premier Janos Kadar's Soviet-supported government is keeping the Hungarian people in the dark about the arrival and activities of the four-man group.

STRASBOURG, France (AP) —Some 40 exiled Hungarian leaders met behind closed doors Saturday to form a revolutionary Hungarian council and map strategy against the Soviet domination of their homeland.

Gen. Bela Kiraly, who commanded the Budapest garrison during the city's bloody anti-Soviet rebellion, was unanimously elected chairman.

Crippled Port Calls State of Emergency

By The Canadian Press

An emergency was declared in Saint John, N.B., Saturday as the Canadian Pacific Railway strike approached a new week with no settlement in sight.

The Saint John emergency was proclaimed at a special meeting of the city's common council. At the same time council members decided to call on other city councils and trade boards in the Maritimes to exert pressure for government intervention in the rail dispute.

Speakers at the meeting said the tie-up is "the worst blow suffered by the port of Saint John in the last 35 years."

A shipping company spokesman said the goodwill of the port is being seriously damaged and if the strike continued business may never return. Longshoremen were still at work but another shipping spokesman said the west side waterfront would "look like a ghost town" by Tuesday.

Elsewhere the country seemed to be weathering the strike without serious effects.

Officials of the rival Canadian National Railways said passenger trains are not crowded. Airline companies reported seats empty on a number of flights.

Both the CPR and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) appeared to be sitting tight pending possible action by the federal government. The cabinet is to meet Monday and Parliament convenes in regular session Tuesday.

NO DECISION MADE

Ottawa informants said federal officials have not yet decided the type of possible legislation nor whether it would be presented to Parliament. One authority speculated that views of the government's commons supporters from across the country would be studied for a sampling of public opinion.

The strike, and the simultaneous tie-up by CPR, left 70,000 employees idle across the 17,000-mile system and thousands of industrial workers also have been laid off as their plants run out of essential supplies.

The strike followed union rejection of a conciliation board report that approved a company plan gradually to remove firemen helpers from diesel locomotives on yard and freight service. The company accepted the report that also recommended a 12-per-cent wage increase, effective in two stages, compared with the 25-per-cent cent boost asked by the union.

Pickets Called Off

Ferry Threat Now Removed

Residents of Vancouver Island gave a sigh of relief yesterday as union leaders withdrew pickets from Vancouver CPR ferry docks, eliminating a threat to mainland sea links.

But as the railroad strike moved into its fifth day unemployment in Island forest industries was expected to spread. Dependence on the railroad has been underscored by initial lay-offs, including the idling of 800 men in the MacMillan and Bloedel plywood plant in Port Alberni Friday.

Employment in many other mills and camps could weather out a short strike, but if settlement is long delayed many camp and mill operators believe they may have to curtail industry and lay off additional hundreds of employees.

Finally receiving clarification on the strike's boundaries, officials of the striking Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen in Vancouver agreed yesterday to confine picketing solely to the railroad operations.

As soon as pickets were removed from docks, the coast steamships subsidiary of CPR announced that freight and express services, halted last Thursday and Friday respectively, would again be in operation.

Building Sets New Record In Sidney

SIDNEY—Building set a new record in Sidney in 1956, with permits surging 70 per cent ahead of those issued in the previous year.

Permits of all kinds for 1956 totalled $159,415, compared with $94,125 in 1955.

Housing was the big item, with 18 permits issued for new dwellings with a total value of $111,370.

Additions to present structures, garages, and other miscellaneous construction amounted to $48,045.

Five Nations

Eisenhower Doctrine Attacked

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia, in concert with four Eastern European nations today bitterly attacked the "Eisenhower doctrine."

The attack was included in a communique disclosing that Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev met representatives from Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Czechoslovakia in Budapest Jan. 1 to 4.

All five signatories of the communique placed "full responsibility" on the United States for what they said was rising tension in the Middle East and for "all the consequences of this tension."

U.K. Job Crisis

Car Industry Slumps As Oil Famine Hits

LONDON (AP)—Europe's oil famine has thrown Britain's automobile industry into a slump causing unemployment and short-time work for tens of thousands of workers.

Gasoline rationing following blockage of the Suez Canal has cut into car sales both at home and in the European market. With short gasoline supplies in prospect for many months, motorists are showing little interest in new cars.

OUTPUT CUT

As a result, automobile makers are cutting back production.

Ford Motor Co. is the latest to announce a cutback—the layoff of 1,000 of 12,000 men at its Briggs Motor Bodies subsidiary next week. More than 1,000 dismissals already have been announced by various car makers around Coventry. An estimated 35,000 more workers are on a three or four-day week.

Some industry experts say the slump may grow more acute. One reason they give is that the factories don't have enough gasoline to bring supplies into the plants and make car deliveries.

With official predictions that rationing may continue at least until late summer, motor dealers are beginning to face up to even greater buyer resistance.

Some dealers are looking for a general rise in car prices.

After 20 Years —Wait a Little

CROSWELL, Mich. (AP) — Jeweler Harold Nehamer has been waiting patiently for the owner to pick up a clock that was left 20 years ago for repairs.

A man walked into the store Friday and asked the amount of the bill.

The jeweler said it was $2.49.

"I'm a little short of money now, but I'll be back next week," the man said, and left.

'How Could We Explain?'

Rifles' 'Queen' Stung Egypt

OTTAWA (BUP) — Egyptian leaders objected to the Queen's Own Rifles being sent to the Middle East as part of the United Nations emergency force because of the word "Queen" in their name, Arab League Secretary-General Abdel Khalik Hassouna said yesterday.

Hassauna told newsmen that if the Canadian government had sent a regiment whose name did not designate it as belonging to the Queen, there would have been no objection.

"How are you going to explain to the people whose land has just been invaded by soldiers from England and Cyprus that the Queen's Own Rifles are now coming to restore order?" Hassouna asked. "The people would simply not have understood."

"The Arab nations consider Canada their friend and certainly do not object to Canadian troops being part of the UN force. Had Canadian troops been sent whose regiment designation did not imply they were sent by the Queen there would have been no objections raised."

Hassouna, who is the Arab League's official observer at the United Nations, conferred with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson. This is his first trip to Canada.

"It is my deep conviction that the two nations (Canada and the Arab peoples) have vast opportunities for co-operation in the service of world peace," Hassouna said. "More so, indeed, as Canada is a nation that does not harbor any colonialist ambitions—a fact that should draw Canadians and the Arabs closer together.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Health writers in Canada and the U.S.A. are always advising overfed citizens how to lose weight. Very little of that kind of advice is issued in China and India, where people keep thin the easy way: by starvation.

We North Americans are the world's greatest gluttons. We have just celebrated the chief festival of our religion by making cheerful hogs of ourselves at the table.

Some of us go short of food — the old and the unfortunate. Many of us are plagued by debt. But altogether, we North Americans are the richest and the greediest people on earth.

To salve our conscience, we dole out help, which some people call generous, to the "backward" countries. But we either grudge it or boast of it, then turn to more important things, such as the problem of taking off a few pounds of fat.

For those of us who have loaded tables—even if we are still dining on turkey stew—it would be fine mental discipline to close our eyes for a second and visualize a brown peasant with ribs showing across the table.

With that vision in mind at the start of a new year, we might not reach for the butter and the gravy so fast. And perhaps there would be less need for articles advising us how to keep thin.

Store as Highway

Tom and Roy Denny have a subtle way of winning new friends for their furniture store. The store extends between View and Yates Streets. The Dennys had signs made to look like Victoria city street signs. One sign says: "This Way to View." The other says: "This Way to Yates." The Dennys invite people to use their store as a highway—and many take them up, especially in good weather.

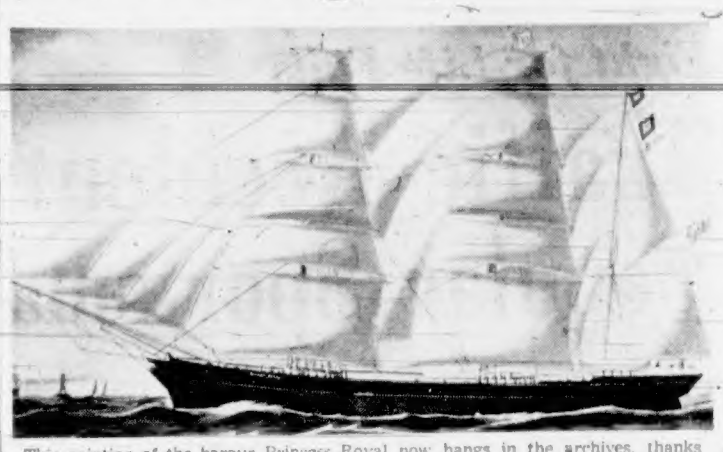
Treasure Given to Archives

Painting Recalls Early B.C. History

Barque Here in 1854



This painting of the barque Princess Royal now hangs in the archives, thanks to the skipper's daughters.

By J. K. NESBITT

The provincial archives in the legislative buildings has a new treasure — a large water color of the Hudson's Bay Company's barque Princess Royal, one of the "Mayflowers" of the B.C. coast.

The Princess Royal first came to this coast in 1854 with the pioneer party of Staffordshire miners to Nanaimo.

The painting was presented to the archives by the two daughters of one of her skippers, Capt. William Barfield, who was in command of the Royal in the 1880s, sailing her from London to Victoria and New Westminster.

The picture was brought from England by Miss Nell K. Wyles of Victoria, treasurer of the local section of the B.C. Historical Association.

* * *

The Misses Barfield live in Kent. One of them was born on the Princess Royal in 1880 and was named Minnie Royal Barfield.

Provincial archivist-librarian Willard E. Ireland recalls the history of the Princess Royal: "She was 583 tons, built for the Hudson's Bay Company at Blackwall, England, in 1853, and sailed on her maiden voyage to this coast under command of Capt. David Wishart. She was of oak and teak construction, copper-bottomed, 145 feet in length, 29.5 feet in breadth, and 18.2 feet in depth.

"She continued her journeys between England and this coast until 1885, in 1879 having some under the command of Capt. Barfield. In 1885 she made a voyage to Moose Factory on Hudson Bay. She completed loading for the return voyage to England and cleared the Moose River bar, only to encounter a terrific snowstorm, and lost all her anchors and became unmanageable.

* * *

"Capt. Barfield put her about and in attempting to cross back over the bar she ran aground and became a total loss. Subsequently the wreck was inhabited by Indians, who accidentally set her afire in January of 1886, and the gallant old barque was totally destroyed. Capt. Barfield trekked on snowshoes 500 miles from Moose Factory, and returned to England by way of Montreal."

Eire Appeals to IRA

'Lay Down Your Arms'

WATERFORD, Ireland (UP) —The justice minister of Ireland (Eire) called on nationalist extremists last night to lay down their guns and use their energies instead "for the economic betterment of our country."

Justice Minister James Everett made no direct mention of the recent series of bloody forays into Northern Ireland by groups believed to be members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army. But he referred indirectly to their actions in which at least three persons have been killed in attempts to force the union of the six northern counties of Ulster with the Irish republic.

"I appeal most earnestly to the young men . . . to pause now and realize that nothing but harm can result from their defiance of the democratic institutions of this state," Everett said.

"Already young lives have been tragically lost. It is a deplorable waste of life and of youthful endeavor that this should happen in the course of actions which can do no good, which do not and cannot help the cause of reuniting Ireland, but, on the contrary, can only cause bitterness and deeper division and postpone the day when all Ireland will be included in a free, independent, united Irish state."

Noting the economically "difficult" time the country is going through, Everett said solution of these economic problems "call for the exercise of the best talent and energy that are available to us."

"The young men to whom I appeal would serve Ireland far better if, instead of endangering their own lives and the lives of others, they devoted themselves to efforts for the economic betterment of our country," he said.

Syria Thwarting Mid-East Oil Flow

BEIRUT (NANA)—No repair work has been started on the Iraq Petroleum Company pipeline blown up by Syria, although the damage is costing the Middle East at least $1,000,000 daily.

Syria will not allow company engineers to inspect the line, despite appeals from Iraq, Lebanon, neutral European governments and the U.S. State Department, and thus far no official of the company has been able to assess the extent of repairs necessary or estimate when the line will be reopened.

Once the pipelines were put out of order, the Syrian Government evicted all British subjects from the country. And the first to go were the engineers who had the know-how to repair the damage.

A petroleum company official pointed out that the explosions wrecked the vital part of the entire pipeline mechanism—the three intricate pumping stations.

This alone is known. Exactly which part of the generators, motors, gauges and the hundreds of other complicated devices of the stations will have to be replaced cannot be judged without an initial survey. And so far the Syrians won't permit anyone to approach the line.

While the oil carried in the pipelines originates in Iraq and only passes through Syria, the intransigeance of the Syrian government is also causing some difficult times for its own people.

The approximately $20,000,000 received annually by Syria for permitting the line to cross her territory amounted to one-third of the country's revenue. The shutdown is costing Iraq even more—a whopping $700,000 a day. Lebanon, the port terminal of the line, also suffers heavily.

The pipelines crossing Syria territory are in charge of the Communist-infiltrated Syrian army now, and they will be once again when they are repaired.

Perhaps the situation was best described by one American oil expert who, on leaving the Middle East said, "out here oil is not business, it's politics."

Poultry Death To Soil Pests

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

South African Heather — (G. B. B., Victoria)—The sprig of plant sent to me for identification is the South African Heather, Erica hyemalis. This plant makes an engaging subject for a greenhouse or a sunny south window in your home, but I doubt very much if it would survive the winter outdoors.

It needs a lime-free, rather sandy loam soil and should be watered only with rain water or the defrostings—from your refrigerator. Cuttings may be taken in late May and rooted in a mixture of peat moss and coarse sand.

Poultry In Orchard — (E. W., Sidney) — It is quite a good idea to run poultry in your small orchard, as the birds will clean out quite a lot of soil-inhabiting pests and will fertilize the soil for you. You'll need to lime the ground offener, though—applying about a pound of pulverized limestone per square yard every second year, and the soil should be aerated or cultivated lightly every spring.

Apricots From Stones — (D. L. L., Victoria)—Apricot stones will germinate and form a tree just as easily as peach stones but the resulting fruit is seldom anywhere near as good as its parent. Your apricot seedlings should start fruiting in their seventh year.

Peaches are much more successful from stones, such trees producing fruit of surprisingly good quality as a rule. You can expect fruit in about five years.

Potted Narcissus — (C. S., Duncan) — The most likely causes of the failure of your potted Narcissus are insufficient rooting and too early forcing. The pots should have been kept in a cool, dark place and watered only when absolutely necessary for at least 12 weeks before introducing them to the light.

In the case of the variety Carleton, the earliest date on which the pots can be brought into a warm room safely is Jan. 12, and this variety must not be permitted to bloom until towards the early part of February. I'm afraid there isn't anything you can do to correct the situation at this late date.

Pruning Clematis (G. M. M., Victoria) — The three kinds of Clematis mentioned in your letter should be pruned as follows: Clematis Jackmani superba, in the Jackman group, should be shortened back by about three-quarters of last summer's strong flowering growth in February, and all thin twiggy bits cut off.

Ville de Lyon, in the Viticella group, bears its flowers on branches grown during the current year, and should also receive fairly hard pruning in February, cutting off about two-thirds of the new shoot growth.

Nellie Moser, in the Patens group, should also be pruned in February but not so drastically, just tipping the ends of long, straggling shoots and removing entirely any weak or misplaced growths.

Pigeon Manure — (V. V. M., Napaimo) — Pigeon manure is very caustic when fresh and should never be applied to growing plants where it is liable to come in contact with foliage or fine feeding roots. It is best either incorporated into the compost heap or dried off, mixed with sand, and used as a side dressing in the vegetable rows during the growing season.

Many City Churches to Mark Universal Week of Prayer

The 111-year-old "Universal Week of Prayer" will be marked this week in many Greater Victoria churches.

At Metropolitan United Church at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Rev. G. R. Easter will speak on "Prayer" at a service sponsored by the Greater Victoria Ministerial Association.

"There are few things of which there is more misunderstanding or misconception than prayer," Mr. Easter said.

A series of meetings sponsored by the Victoria unit of the World Evangelical Fellowship will open at Central Baptist Church at 2.30 p.m. Monday, and continue every day at the same time through Saturday.

Speakers will be Rev. C. B. Smith, Glad Tidings Tabernacle; Rev. Cecil Barner, Douglas Street Baptist Church; Dr. J. B. Rowell, Central Baptist Church; Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, Victoria West United Church, and Rev. Percy Wills, superintendent of the Shantymen's Christian Association.

The Christian Brethern Assemblies will meet for prayer in Victoria Gospel Hall Monday through Thursday at 8 p.m. and at the new Oaklands Chapel, corner of Fernwood and Cedar Hill Roads, Friday at 8 p.m.

Quadra Bible Chapel will observe the week of prayer with meetings Monday through Thursday at 8 p.m.

Rev. Dr. W. W. McPherson will speak on "My Soul Doth Magnify the Lord," at Oak Bay United Church's observance of the week at 7.30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Car Corner

Wolseley Dignified, Racy

By J. T. JONES

It isn't often that a car comes along with the virtues combined in the Wolseley 6/90.

It's big, with room for six passengers. It's dignified, in a lean, racy sort of way. It's economical, at about 25 miles to the gallon. It's beautifully finished, with fine leather upholstery and polished wood trim for doors and dashboard.

It gets really vigorous performance from its six-cylinder BMC engine, and it handles very much like a sports car.

At $2,895, that's quite a combination.

This Wolseley is a large car by British standards, and a fair size by our own. Its horsepower figure of 105 doesn't sound impressive compared to some of the big domestic V-8s, but the Wolseley saves roughly half a ton in total weight, which makes up for a lot of horsepower.

Besides, it has a nicely-engineered four-speed gearbox, plus overdrive, giving a startling performance if used right.

* * *

There's ample torque for quite severe hills even in fourth gear, and third is useful for quick highway passing. Action in the 30-to-40 range in second gear is the scalded-cat kind.

The steering-column gear-shift setup is not of the best, largely due to the long push required to get into third gear. The manufacturers have evidently recognized this, for next year's Wolseley will have a short, floor-mounted lever, left of the driver's seat. The British Automobile Centre men told me at least four times that this is the system used by Rolls-Royce.

The overdrive unit is the American Borg-Warner unit, less effective, in my opinion, than the British Laycock-de Normanville type. Next year's Wolseley will offer a Borg-Warner automatic transmission the same as those now used on Ford products.

Suspension of the Wolseley is by torsion bars at the front and coil springs at the back. The end result is rather pronounced understeer, and I'd be inclined to run this car with more tire pressure at the front.

Body roll on corners is very mild, and the steering is quick and precise. That means that the Wolseley takes the bends with comfort and safety, even on rough roads.

* * *

The six-cylinder engine has dual SU carburetors to help boost its performance. The car's ride is firm without being harsh, and there's no trace of the willowy-wallowy effect that unfortunately crops up in some large English cars as well as a good many of our own.

Wolseley is a grand old name in English motoring, not so well known here. The 6/90 is a car that could, with equal aplomb, deliver a bank president to a board meeting or a competitor to the Monte Carlo Rally.

Gordon Smith, a schoolteacher from Salmon Arm, needs some assistance—witnesses—in an accident.

Justice demands the full story from both sides, and his accident—which I sincerely hope never happens to you—was a collision with a police vehicle.

It happened at Ray and Cook at 3.50 p.m. Dec. 27. His car was a Volkswagen, and the other the police ambulance. Smith's phone number in town is 2-4503, and all he wants is the facts.

Robed Riders Fire at Home Order Negro to Get Out

CARROLLTON, Ala. (AP) — Robed nightriders fired into the home of a Negro tenant farmer and ordered him to move within 48 hours, Sheriff R. R. Shields said yesterday.

Lee Doughty, a tenant on the farm of Ernest Williams near Palmetto in north Pickens county Monday night. Shields said no one was injured and the family still occupied the house.

The nightriders drove up in several cars and called to the Negro man who was staying with the Doughtys. They wore hoods with their faces exposed but none of them was identified.

Shields said he was at a loss as to the motive for the visit.

"Doughty has had some trouble with the law but he wouldn't be out at line with the Ku Klux," he said.

This is the account of the visit as told to Shields:

The nightriders came to the Doughty place Monday night. A man came up on the porch and told Doughty that the sheriff wanted to talk to him but when Doughty opened the door and saw a robed man with a shotgun he slammed the door and locked it.

When Doughty refused to go outside, the band fired several shotgun charges and at least one pistol bullet into the house, shots passing over a bed in which a baby was sleeping. A window pane was shattered and a bullet passed through the ceiling.

The nightriders warned the Doughtys that unless they moved by sundown Wednesday, two days later, they would return. They were not seen again, however.

Swami in Vancouver For Sikh Festival

Swami Agehananda, the 33-year-old Viennese who became an Indian monk, is in Vancouver today, taking part in a Sikh religious ceremony. A number of East Indians from Victoria will also take part.

They will join Sikhs living in Vancouver to celebrate the birthday of the 10th Guru, or prophet, of the Sikh religion —Guru Gobind Singh.

Ceremony will be similar to one carried out at Victoria's Sikh Temple on Topaz at Christmas time when the Sikh bible, the Granth, was read from cover to cover by four priests, and learned men interpreted the Granth.

Swami Agehananda will deliver a public lecture, his first in Victoria, in the Universal Fellowship Hall, 1928 Oak Bay Avenue, at 8 p.m. Friday.

His topic will be "What is Yoga?"

Blast from Moscow

U.S. Communists Think Too Much

MOSCOW (AP) — Party Life, the monthly journal of the Soviet Communist Central Committee, Saturday blasted right-wingers of the American Communist party for attempting, what it called "open revision of Marxism-Leninism." It said their revisionist views were dangerous.

"According to their reasoning," the journal said, "Marxism is already outmoded and Leninism is specifically a Russian phenomenon. To them the economic teachings of Marxism-Leninism do not fit the analysis of capitalism in the United States, where they say capitalism is developing according to 'specific laws.'

"They have come out against the dictatorship of the proletariat and against a party of the Leninist type. Instead they propose to create a 'mass association of Communist propaganda' and they openly state that socialism is a matter for the remote future."

Party Life reflects the official viewpoint of Soviet communism.

Mild Month Forecast For B.C.

TORONTO (CP) — Good news for the West but bad news for the East was disclosed in a long-range weather forecast for January, prepared by the United States department of commerce.

Temperatures will be above normal in British Columbia and southern Alberta, the U.S. weatherman said, but below normal for all eastern Canada. The forecast calls for extra snow in the East — especially in the Maritimes.

Snowfalls should be below normal on the Prairies and in the Great Lakes region.

Canadian weather forecasters say they are unable to make long-range predictions because they haven't enough staff. U.S. forecasts are forwarded to them on an informative basis.

Eisenhower Plea

'Gun Behind Door'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower implored a solemn, largely silent Congress Saturday to give him gun-behind-the-door authority to defend the Mid-East against armed aggression by the "ambitious despots" of "power-hungry" communism.

But in brandishing this iron fist under the Soviet nose, Eisenhower emphasized that "we seek no violence, but peace." And he said that Russia need have no fear from this country in the Mid-East or elsewhere, "so long as its rulers do not themselves first resort to aggression."

The president dramatically underscored the "grave importance" of his message to the legislators by delivering it in person to a combined Senate-House session with overflowing galleries and to the nation and the world by television and radio.

Specifically, Eisenhower asked a none too eager Congress to co-operate in telling friendly and unfriendly nations alike just "where we stand" by authorizing:

1. Use of "the armed forces of the United States as he deems necessary to secure and protect the territorial integrity and political independence" of any Middle Eastern nation "against overt armed aggression from any nation controlled by international communism." That would be done only if such help was requested by the endangered country and "subject to the overriding authority of the UN Security Council."

2. American economic aid to help the Mid-East develop the economic strength necessary to the maintenance of national independence.

3. Military aid to any nation or nations in the area which want it.

4. Use of mutual security funds already available, for "economic and defensive military purposes."

Eisenhower proposed that 200 million dollars a year be made available for two years, starting next July 1, for military and economic assistance in the troubled Mid-East.

"The proposed legislation," he said, "is primarily designed to deal with the possibility of Communist aggression, direct and indirect . . . Experience shows that indirect aggression rarely if ever succeeds where there is forces and where economic conditions are such as not to make reasonable security against direct aggression; where the government possesses loyal security alternative . . ."

Doctrine Heartens Britain

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UP)—Britain welcomed the new Eisenhower doctrine for the strategic Middle East with a seeming sign of relief.

Authoritative diplomats termed it the most important single move of recent U.S. Mid-Eastern policy.

But they also interpreted it as an implicit vindication of the motives which lay behind the fateful Anglo-French Suez intervention in the fall.

The British Foreign Office reserved comment until later, after closer study of the Eisenhower plan and its diplomatic, military and economic implications.

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden was reported to have begun immediate study with his advisers of the much awaited Eisenhower statement to Congress yesterday.

Britain had been given the broad outlines of American thinking on the Middle East in the past few days, but she was not consulted in advance, nor was she given the details of the Eisenhower doctrine, informed sources said.

Authoritative diplomatic observers termed the president's plan a move in the right direction which has created a basis for a concrete and constructive Middle East policy.

The Last Word on Petrol . . .

Keeping the Powder Dry

DEFENCE MINISTER CAMPNEY projected two thoughts at a Liberal nomination meeting last week: one, he does not think any nation will dare to start a third world war; two, he thinks he will be re-elected at the next federal election by a record-breaking margin. The second of these is not important to humanity; the first is.

Many knowledgeable people may agree with Mr. Campney with respect to the possibility of another global conflict. If not exactly taken for granted, it is assumed that nuclear weapons might easily cancel one another out. Where belligerents know that each can wipe out the other, no matter who might win technically in the end, there is apt to be serious pause before either drops the first atomic bomb on the other's homeland.

There is always the risk that a desperate man in control might resort to the last, ultimate weapon; but even here there is a precedent that offers hope. Hitler practically dragged his nation down to the level of his own suicide, yet even he never gave the word for the release of poison gas. Both sides could have used that awful resource, but both refrained. The mutual deterrent is now more catastrophic and it could be equally effective.

Mr. Campney was on sure ground, nevertheless, when he reminded his hearers that what is called conventional war is likely still to be invoked, somewhere, sometime, by someone. Probably only a change in human nature could avoid this entirely. For that reason nations must keep their powder dry, even if reason rules out nuclear war. Hence the defence program of which he is in charge and which cannot easily be softened. One might quarrel perhaps with this or that facet of defence expenditure, but of the need for defence there can be no doubt.

Blood Donors Urgently Needed

AS always after public holidays the level of the Red Cross blood bank stands at a seriously low point as a result of the heavy demand on it for the treatment of victims of accidents. Consequently it is on a note of real urgency that the Red Cross is making this month's appeal for donations of blood from members of the public. The importance of replenishing the stock to a safe level cannot be emphasized too strongly, for the means to replace blood lost through injury or illness is vital to the saving of life.

There are on the lists of the Red Cross men and women of all stations of life who regularly and unfailingly make this simple and painless contribution towards the survival of unknown sufferers. If the supplies which must be held on hand or in reserve are to be restored to the minimum required for public safety, however, many more donors will be needed in this post-holiday collection. The situation is made more difficult for the Red Cross this time also by reason of the fact that the clinic at HMCS Naden, normally a highly productive source, has had to be cancelled this month due to unavoidable circumstances of naval service.

This represents serious loss to the blood bank and accentuates the need for generous response from civilians. Public clinics will be held this week on Tuesday and Wednesday at Red Cross House on Fort Street near Cook. It is earnestly hoped that the support will be such as permit the Red Cross and hospitals it supplies to face the future without misgivings. Donations of blood are gifts to the cause of humanity which cost the giver nothing but a few moments of his time.

Popular Appointment

THE elevation of Mr. Alan Maclean, QC, deputy attorney-general, to the Supreme Court of British Columbia is as deserved as the choice will prove popular. Son of the late Mr. H. A. Maclean, KC, a noted barrister, Mr. Alan Maclean long ago established high capabilities on his own merits. Marked legal talent; a 22-year connection with the attorney-general's department, in which he advanced to its senior executive position; and an extensive knowledge of British Columbia law at first hand, are part of the contribution he will take to new responsibilities. The appointment is one that will give pleasure throughout the province.

Concurrently, 23 British Columbia barristers have been made Queen's Counsel by provincial appointment, with four well-known Victorians in the list. They are Messrs. Robert A. Wootton, Gordon A. Cameron, H. J. Crane and G. Pitcairn Hogg, all now receiving the congratulations of their friends.

How Ottawa Breaks 'News'

IF Canadian news services had to depend on federal government bureaus for information on matters of international concern in which the Dominion is involved, the news would be pretty stale by the time it reached the public. By mail yesterday a press release was received from the "Information Division" of the Department of External Affairs summarizing discussions and resolutions of the last ministerial session of the North Atlantic Council, many of them vitally important to unity within the Atlantic alliance. It was labelled "For immediate release Dec. 14, 1956." The envelope was postmarked "Ottawa, Jan. 3, 1957."

Island Editors Say

Museum of Logging

This district has been a centre of the logging and lumbering industry since the days of ox teams, sailing ships and corduroy roads. The Alberni have seen an industry grow through several eras as methods have changed from the primitive to the highly mechanized.

We feel that, as the province prepares for its centennial, the Alberni Valley should be establishing a permanent exhibit to emphasize the importance of the community in the history of lumbering.

A museum featuring logging and sawmilling equipment of days gone by would be a source of interest to rising generations of local residents and an attraction to tourists.

Cost of a project of this kind would not be excessive. We are sure that antiquated machinery and the items to point up the interesting stages of growth of an industry would be donated from many different sources.

—TWIN CITIES TIMES

A Fine Tradition

Code of the Boy Scout movement rarely fails to prove its value to the boy or his community. The traditions of this movement were upheld by young Robert Morris last year when he went to the aid of a drowning youngster and rescued him at no inconsiderable risk to his own life. Last week saw the final chapter of this incident when the Scout received a testimonial from the Royal Canadian Humane Society.

In these days of delinquency and eagerly recognized deteriorations of standards it is pleasing to see a youngster take part in such an altruistic action. It is still more pleasing to observe that an incident of outstanding courage in a quiet community on a Pacific coast island can gain national recognition.

Salt Spring Island is proud of Robert Morris and well it should be.

Better Than a Boom

In looking back over last year we cannot help but see that 1956 was good for this district and city.

There was disappointment in some quarters when it was learned that the population had increased only about 500 here in Courtenay, but we do not feel unhappy about that. The growth was steady and there are indications that it will continue to grow steadily.

We prefer to have the type of progress which continues over a period of many years rather than have the boom-slump type of growth.

Notable Victory

Cowichan High School boys won a notable curling victory here in a Vancouver Island school bonspiel. Victoria, Nanaimo and Alberni Valley rinks were also entered.

The fascination of this winter game, played on artificial ice in our temperate coast climate, continues to mystify all non-curlers and to increase for all its followers. By means of it the Canadian nation enjoys fellowship and seasonal sports unity.

Entry of high school students among the ranks of curlers is not new. Becoming more popular from year to year, however, the game demands skill, teamwork and a sense of tactics. Good sportsmanship is a part of it, as strong in Cowichan Valley as anywhere else on Vancouver Island.

—COWICHAN LEADER

Freedom of the Press

Old as the urge to freedom, has been the necessity of a medium through which the constant need of amendment might be kept before the public. Freedom in common with everything good must keep on growing and adapting itself to the needs of a people if it is not to perish. From the streets and out of the early prisons where its defenders found themselves, the right of man to free expression through writing and the press has been affirmed.

In a day when the Iron Curtain can conceal all but its purpose from millions of men born free, the press of the free world lives on its opportunities equalled by its responsibilities. "Error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it."

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

ASSUMING that great men of old bother with people like us, Leonardo da Vinci would sit up and take notice on New Year's Eve when a man was charged in a Paris court with "damaging an object of public utility"; to wit, the Mona Lisa. This because he had the bad manners to hurl a brick and chip the painted elbow of La Gioconda, happily now neatly restored, and the Louvre once more at peace.

It could have been worse; forty years ago she was kidnapped for two years.

But when you think of a public utility you think of a bus or a bathtub, although perhaps the latter is a private utility. Leonardo left notebooks full of utilitarian things but surely the Mona Lisa does not come under this heading. If it does then art in Paris must be taking another queer turn.

* * *

She is a utility in the sense of providing a public purpose, true enough—the study of perhaps the most famous painting in the world—but such a designation scarcely fits either the lady or her painter. I dare say if she also knows about this it will deepen her smile.

Personally I have never recognized her smile, albeit this is the expression invariably attributed to her; with the addition of the adjective enigmatic. Nobody is quite sure what the lady is thinking as she glances quizzically at Leonardo, although this is no cause for any surprise. When did anyone know what any lady was really thinking about?

Actually she looks as though she is challenging the master to reveal her secrets, with a sort of amused tolerance hovering on her lips. Perhaps, on the other hand, she is slightly bored by the sittings which spread over four years, Leonardo being so full of bees in his bonnet, if one may so speak of an authentic genius without disrespect, that he oft never finished what he started.

He finished the Mona Lisa, all right, fortunately for posterity, and thus gave her immortality.

* * *

A French critic says of his complex gifts that "The man with talent does what he wishes; the man of genius what he can," but surely the opposite is the case. Leonardo turned his mind and hand as the mood took him and there seemed no limit to his brain except that it was born centuries before its time.

Who else, for instance, when applying for a job—500 years ago, mind you—could guarantee to build a kind of Bailey bridge, syphon water out of trenches, destroy any fortress, make big guns, catapults and mortars, create any type of architecture or public building, carry out sculpture, in marble, bronze or clay, and do in painting "whatever may be done, as well as any other, be he who he may."

And back his words with deeds. He got the job, too—as a military engineer. Happily his achievements as distinct from his ideas were in the realm of art. Hence the masterpiece in the Louvre described in a court as a "public utility." For all its expansiveness language has sad limitations.

* * *

Turning back to the Mona Lisa's reputed smile, it could not have been her own. It would be Leonardo's, for he put the same expression on his paintings of Saint Anne and Saint John the Baptist; only with a deeper, more whimsical tinge as though in private he felt deprecative. He had no cause to be unduly humble unless it was that he knew he was not as other men and so was impelled to propitiate the gods.

One reads however that he was a serene man; serenity in a person of exceptional and multifarious gifts perhaps means sanity, and possibly La Gioconda sensed this as the master put an enigmatic curve to her lips. Both of them, I fancy, if together they could read about the Paris court case on New Year's Eve, would merely nod knowingly in amused toleration.

Public utility or not, there is only one Mona Lisa. Perhaps as he painted her Leonardo knew this would be so.

Unrealities in the 1957 Outlook

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist Correspondent

BRITAIN'S march into 1957 is a speculative affair without any real certainty as to the ultimate destination. It is this lack of direction which is causing so much frustration and creating the congestion at the immigration offices and the employment exchanges. It seems that we have gone round in full circle and reached somewhere about 1951—with petrol rationing, an acute dollar situation and a falling export market.

We have to add to that a Suez Canal which is closed, and a relationship with the United States which is nothing like as friendly as it was six years ago; and even some Commonwealth relations seem to be suspect. Once more we seem to be in the state of staggering from crisis to crisis and applying the ancient remedies which did not prove very successful in the past.

Even now the tendency is to think in terms of the past rather than the future. We have all sorts of pious governmental statements about how everything in the garden will be lovely when the Suez Canal is reopened—always assuming that America's Gen. Wheeler manages to spare enough time from his coffee to consider seriously the implications involved in salvage operations, and that the United States will put a bit of realism into its foreign policy and stop regarding Abdul Nasser as one of the world's great benefactors.

* * *

At the moment it seems as though Nasser has become a supernumerary adviser of Middle Eastern affairs to the State Department, and the United States is showing extraordinary naivete dealing with this corrupt dictator far more closely allied with the Kremlin than some of the displaced civil servants about whom America seemed so distressed in the McCarthy era.

There is a growing view over here that President Eisenhower has been allowing the United States to dance the Russian tune called by Colonel Nasser in the misguided belief that he is somehow helping the United Nations to create stability. This unrealistic attitude is perhaps helped by the British government's attitude towards the Suez Canal. There is a woeful air of unreality about its attitude.

Reports reaching Britain from Egypt indicate that the economic squeeze in Egypt is becoming more serious every day. Apart from the loss of canal revenues, Egypt is suffering acute privations through lack of oil and lack of shipping. It will not be very long before economic pressure achieves what Sir Anthony Eden failed to achieve by armed intervention—unless of course America goes the whole hog and bolsters up the Egyptian economy with a supply of dollars. If that is done then Nasser may well linger on for quite a long time.

* * *

But it does not excuse this British attitude of what is going to happen when the Suez Canal reopens. It suggests a comparative unreality of the British view at a time when we should be concentrating the whole of our effort on making the Suez Canal redundant. One had hoped, as a big industrialist put it to me the other day, that the one virtue of the Suez affair would have been to prove to everyone that Britain needs to develop her own economy instead of leaning as we have been on the unreliability of Middle East dictators and on an unrealistic State Department in Washington.

British industry has been shown in the last two months of 1956 to be dependent upon Suez and dollars, and the two have been strangely linked by the realization that we are handicapped in earning dollars without Suez. Bluntly that we have ceased to control our own supply lines—which any army service corps private could have told the politicians was fatal.

* * *

If Britain is to retain its place in the world it will have to adapt its economy to the needs of modern trends. The two realistic items of Middle East facts of life are that Nasser hates our guts and that the rest of the Arab world wants our money. There is nothing incompatible about them except the wisdom of keeping out of the Suez Canal even if it is reopened.

If the government ordered a couple of dozen 80,000-ton tankers and built them as though our life depended on them (as well it may) the Suez Canal would be virtually redundant except in so far as its absence from shipping schedules would inconvenience a few passengers by sea to India who, if they are in a hurry, travel by air anyway. Britain will be singularly stupid if it does not repair the foundations weakened by the Suez crack.

We will also be singularly foolish if we do not realize the underlying weakness of the United States alliance and concentrate much more on Commonwealth realities. Even the attitude of the Canadian prime minister could be used to advantage—if only as a horrible warning of what may happen if Britain concentrates more time on America and Suez than it does on the Commonwealth.

The great need of 1957 is for Britain to write off Suez, and if when it is reopened to use it if and when it suits our convenience; to streamline the economy to self-sufficient supply lines, which means more intensive development of atomic power and tankers which can use the high seas and be protected by our own sea and air forces.

As for dollars we should resolve to earn them and do without what we cannot pay for, and change our control policy to allow a worthwhile proportion of the dollars we earn to be invested in dollar securities and so breed a dollar supply of their own.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

SUPERSTITIOUS people in Britain are fretting over the appearance this past autumn of extraordinary numbers of the death's head moth. They feel it is a harbinger of some sort of disaster. An elderly countrywoman in Cumberland with whom I correspond about birds and other natural history topics has written me a long rigmarole, attempting to show that each invasion of the death's head moth in recorded history is followed by war, famine or pestilence. A Scotch bookseller touring Canada, with whom I had lunch a few days ago, also expressed his anxiety along the same lines. Country Life, the notable English weekly devoted to the old-fashioned and beautiful, has a feature article reviewing this ancient superstition and exploding it in terms of simple natural history.

The death's head moth is a huge insect belonging to the same family as our hawk moths or sphinx moths which we see, in the evenings, hovering like humming birds over our garden flowers. It has a wing span of over five inches, and a body almost as big as that of a field mouse. On its back, or thorax, is a remarkable white representation of a skull, or death's head. Its caterpillar, which infests potato plants, is a spectacular big worm, five and a half inches long, two inches in girth, yellow green in color with diagonal lines in purple.

The death's head is not native to Britain, but flies across the Channel from France. Normally extremely rare, with only a dozen of them reported in a year, this past autumn it moved across in hundreds or possibly thousands, and has been commonly reported not only in the south but all the way up through Britain and even in Ireland. The invaders mate and lay eggs in Britain, and the worms thrive on the English potato plants. But as far as is known, none of the pupae survives the British winters. The true home of the insect is in the Near East and North Africa.

Naturalists assert that specially favorable weather in Europe resulted in a big hatch of the moth there, and that favorable winds in early September wafted extraordinary numbers of them across the Channel.

But with all the other confusions that infest the British Isles, it is not much help to have old superstitions aroused amongst that section of the populace that is gifted with credulity.

Temperate New Year

TWENTY-FIVE years ago provincial police and the police forces of a dozen towns combed B.C. for three men who had escaped from Oakalla: William Bagley, Frank Sorge and Gordon Fawcett. Two others had been recaptured. Col. J. H. McMullin, commissioner of B.C. Police, took charge of the investigation into the prison break.

A sweeping round-up of India's nationalist leaders began. Vithalbai Patel, former president of the Indian legislative assembly, and others prominent in the outlawed Indian Nationalist Congress, were arrested. The drive against the civil disobedience movement was under way.

Four men died in a New Year's Eve parcel-post bomb plot which aimed to spread death and destruction across a wide area of the eastern and middle western United States. Bombs were sent in the mail to Italians and pro-Fascists. Explosion of two bomb-parcels in Easton, Pa., cost four lives, including that of a post office explosives expert.

C. P. Scott of the Manchester Guardian, one of the greatest names in British journalism, died at the age of 85.

BARONESS Burdett-Coutts, philanthropist, died in London 50 years ago. She had been a benefactress of the Anglican Church in B.C., among other causes. She made possible the foundation of the diocese of Columbia by endowing it with £15,000.

The last vestige of imperial control disappeared from Halifax when the naval dockyard in that city passed into the hands of Canada, on New Year's Day, 1907.

Over 500 people called at Government House on New Year's Day to pay their respects to His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir. The Colonist listed the names of several score of them, and also some of the names of those who called on Mayor A. J. Morley.

* * *

"A NUMBER of the citizens of Nanaimo, having discarded every kind of malt and spirituous liquor from their houses, met together on New Year's Day and sat down to a sumptuous temperance dinner."

So The British Colonist reported 95 years ago. "Our Nanaimo correspond is of opinion that the teetotallers had a better time than the wine-bibbers, and reports having met several of the latter class . . . with black eyes."

"The first sleigh—drawn by two horses—was out on Yates Street last evening. Several persons availed themselves of the rare opportunity to enjoy a sleigh ride, and their shouts, mingled with the merry jingle of the bells, reminded one of old times."

Run Them Out

Now that the railway strike is on why is it controlled from the U.S.A.? A man is sent from Portland to organize B.C. He gets his orders from Cleveland.

Surely Canada is old enough and wise enough to control its own labor problems. Let us run all the outside unions out of Canada and have strictly Canadian unions for Canadian workers.

ROBERT W. PATERSON.

For What, Whom, Why?

I read in the Colonist of Jan. 3 that paralysis envelopes the vast rail network of the Canadian Pacific Railway. A Mr. Druce from Portland, Oregon, came to conduct the strike campaign; also orders came from Cleveland, U.S.A.

I am not concerned with the demands of the Canadian unions. But as a Canadian citizen who put on uniform in three wars to protect the sovereignty of Canada I think I have the right to say it is about time the Canadian unions had the guts to run their own business, and the Canadian government the courage to keep these fellows from the U.S.A. out of our country.

We Canadians have proved to the world we can fight our own battles. Can you imagine Russia or the United States government allowing Canadian citizens to enter their countries to conduct a strike campaign? After all it is the PBP of this country who will have to suffer from this strike.

As things stand, it makes one wonder what we are striking for, and who for, and why.

ROBERT G. JAMES.

Saanichton, B.C.

Majority Disregarded

In perusing the Daily Colonist of Jan. 3, and in particular the article dealing with the strike of CPR workers, it is noted that "a last minute order to picket the sea-going services of the CPR was issued Wednesday by William Druce, international vice-president of the union, who came from Portland, Oregon, to conduct the strike campaign;" and again "Mr. Druce said the order came from union headquarters in Cleveland."

These two quotations—and other incidents of recent date—lead one to ask just what sort of a national government Canada has—and whether that government is prepared to sit back entirely and let the unions (which appear to be controlled from outside Canada) control the country.

It should be emphasized there still are a lot of Canadian citizens who do not belong to a union, and are not satisfied to have the unions take over control of our industries to the total disregard of the interests of the majority of our population.

Baby Bonus, Schools

There has been so much written about school cost and taxes so it is all through Canada the same story. We've got to have schools and space to put the children.

Ever since the baby bonus has come to stay in Canada as in no other nation, I would suggest to attach to every baby allowance cheque a 25 per cent school charge which could be detached by the bank and put in a fund for every town and city the cheque is mailed to. It would help the provinces through all Canada, also the taxpayers a great deal. The Canadian government be approached in this matter.

WILLIAM MATT.

Increasing Taxes

In the Colonist of Friday there was a small article to the effect that our police were demanding a 15 per cent wage increase, and that our civic staff wanted its contract abrogated so that, doubtless, they could demand more. And now the firemen.

Reading between the lines, one could sense the apparent hopelessness of the situation; that these demands must be met, or partly so, that our tax rate must increase to pay them; that there will be similar demands and tax increase next year, and so on for ever and ever.

Recently, according to the Colonist, Mayor Scurrah deplored these annual demands and the effect the tax increases would have upon the less fortunate; especially retired people like myself. Is it any wonder that the taxpayers of Victoria are so apathetic? We feel: what's the use? We'll get it in the neck anyhow. So why vote?

Mayor Scurrah was elected to benefit the community as a whole and not just our unions. Has he, and our councillors, the courage to refuse these demands, now and in the future? They have no excuse anyhow. If he dare refuse, the home and properly owners of this city will rise up and call him blessed. Or is it to be a case of "Unto him that hath, more shall be given?"

Finally, if these annual demands could be put to a vote of the taxpayers, is there any doubt of the result? We'd turn out and vote then.

Soldier Obtained Goods by Trick

A Work Point Barracks sapper who went on a credit spree last month, ended up in city police court yesterday.

Ronald E. Brewer, a member of 3 Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, pleaded guilty to obtaining by false pretences $647.61 of credit from the T. Eaton Co.

He also was charged with passing a $30 worthless cheque at the same store.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall remanded Brewer to Jan. 10 for a probation report and sentence.

A store detective said that Brewer opened a charge account good for only $60 on Dec. 15 under a false name.

By buying miscellaneous items such as clothing in all departments of the store, Brewer obtained $647.61 worth of goods within a few days, the detective said.

Approximately $100 worth of the goods were recovered, he said.

Sacred Art Contest Backs Pope's Drive

VATICAN CITY (UP) — The Pontifical Commission for Sacred Art yesterday joined Pope Pius XII's drive to spread religion among the working masses by stressing that Christ and St. Joseph themselves were manual workers.

The commission announced an international contest for painting of "Jesus the Divine Worker" and "St. Joseph the Workman," with a total of 4,000,000 lire ($6,400) worth of prizes.

The Pope has noted in various addresses to workers that Christ did not disdain manual work. In a memorable speech to 200,000 workers May 1, 1955, he "baptized" May Day by proclaiming it the Roman Catholic feast of St. Joseph the workman.

The contest called by the commission for sacred art is open to both Italian and foreign painters, and expires April 30.

Sketches to be submitted to the jury must be 3.3 by two feet, and may portray the two subjects either separately or jointly. The best three sketches will be turned into altar pieces six by 9.8 feet.

The nine-man jury, headed by commission vice-president Msgr. Giovanni Fallini, includes Deoclecio Redig de Campos, attache to the Brazilian embassy to the Holy See.

Lightning Israeli Strike

Code Triggered Call-Up

By LIONEL SHAPIRO

TEL AVIV (NANA) — The speed and boldness of Israel's Sinai strike could never have succeeded without a highly secret and ingenious mobilization plan, now revealed for the first time.

In the words of a high-ranking British officer, one of many military experts who have been analyzing the Sinai blitz, "the real military miracle came in advance of the fighting—the mobilization was not only incredibly fast; it was so secret the Egyptians were caught off balance and were kept off balance."

Here is how it was done:

Israel's reservists were divided into miniscule groups, living on the same street or farm district, and each member was required to learn where to reach the others at any hour of the day or night.

When mobilization was ordered word was passed to the groups through secret code words inserted in radio newscasts and in newspapers. The words were unnoticed by the public at large but when spotted by one of the group members they served to mobilize the unit without any public announcement.

For porposes of rehearsal as well as security, the mobilization plan was put into effect several times a year. The men called up were kept at their report stations only a few minutes or as much as a few hours before being discharged. They never knew when it might be the real thing.

The plan also embraced transportation. The vehicles of private car-owners, taxi drivers and bus and truck operators were part of the scheme.

When the call-up came for the Sinai campaign, Tel Aviv bus drivers rushed first to the civic garage and then reported to their stations in uniform with their arms and their buses. A butcher got out of his delivery truck and knew from frequent rehearsal exactly which members of his group he was required to pick up and drive to the mobilization centre.

A veteran of the Gaza fighting recalled that his infantry company was driven in a Tel Aviv street bus to within 200 yards of an Egyptian-held fortification south of the city of Gaza. The men scrambled out of the buses, deployed and went into action.

"When the cease-fire came," he reminisced, "we were in the desert near the Suez Canal and it was really an amazing sight. The sand was strewn with our transport vehicles still advertising sausages or cigarets or beauty lotions."

The plan seemed to have worked perfectly. On average it took less than 80 hours to transport a man working in a Tel Aviv bookshop into a soldier fighting in the Sinai 200 miles distant.

Troops Stay in Hungary

Russia Playing It Safe

LONDON (UP)—Russia probably will withdraw its troops from Budapest but will not evacuate Hungary proper, Communist officials said Saturday.

The officials hinted broadly that Soviet forces will not leave Hungary because the Kremlin will not run the risk of another independence uprising.

Soviet troops and armor will stay in the country under similar arrangements made between Moscow and the new Polish government last month, the officials said.

Under the Moscow-Warsaw pact, Soviet troops will remain in Poland to "protect" the Poles from possible western aggression, but Poland will have virtual veto power over the size and location of the Soviet troops in the country.

The primary aim of the Hungarian rebels has been to oust Russian forces from Hungarian soil. The Soviet-sponsored government of Premier Janos Kadar in Budapest has promised to negotiate such a withdrawal as soon as "law and order" are restored.

But the Communist officials here indicated that there will be no Russian withdrawal in the foreseeable future.

All indications are that Moscow cannot afford to remove its troops because it cannot be sure of Hungary's allegiance even when the Hungarian army is completely purged of rebels and reorganized.

Moreover, the Red Army generals are believed to be insisting that Russia maintain troops in the satellites for strategic and security reasons.

Electors May Topple Red Polish Leaders

LODZ, Poland (AP)—The Polish United Workers' — Communist — party Saturday admitted that the parliamentary seats of some of its leaders are in danger.

It called on its flagging membership to make a "tremendous mobilization effort" to whip up public support before the Jan. 20 national election.

The party's "worker's agency" distributed a statement by Andrew Werblan, chief of electoral propaganda, scoring apathy and dissention among party members.

He said it was imperative to fight the voters' negative attitude towards "central activists," top party men who are standing for election in provincial districts.

The election is on the single list of the National Front made up of the Communist party, Poland's two other tolerated parties and representatives of social organizations such as the trades union.

All candidates are pledged to support the United Workers' party's "Polish road to socialism," but the electorate has a limited choice of candidates.

Because of this new — though limited — freedom the United Workers' party is likely to lose its outright majority in Parliament.

The party is fully prepared to lose some seats as a deliberate act of policy in line with Wladislaw Gomulka's thesis that all elements of the nation must be given a voice in national affairs. But it is likely to lose some big names in the process.

Something Of Merit Each Night

By BRUCE LOWTHER

If the networks can only live up to the example set by this first full week, 1957 should be a very entertaining year for TViewers.

It's not that any of the shows in the next seven days are world-beaters, but there is something of merit each night, and not all of the features pander to the so-called "mass audience."

Between 12 and 16 shows are worthy of mention among the highlights. So here goes.

Sunday—Debut of Odyssey, the CBS Wide Wide World (channels 11 and 12, 1 p.m.); Wide Wide itself visits famous women (channel 4, 4 p.m.); See It Now looks at Clinton, Tenn. It's a slim week for sports fans with only the New York-Detroit NHL hockey game worth noting (channels 11 and 12, 11 a.m. Saturday).

Good movies are "Bonnie Prince Charlie" (channel 13, 10.30 tonight); "Conquest," with Greta Garbo and Charles Boyer (channel 5, 10.45 Wednesday); the excellent "Our Town" (channel 12, 10.35 Friday); "Brigham Young" (channel 4, 11 p.m. Saturday).

Norwegian Choir Mixes Song, Dance

Every touring artist tries for something "different" in a program. This has been accomplished with a vengeance by the Singing (and dancing) Boys of Norway, who come to the Royal Theatre at 8.30 Jan. 24 under Famous Artists' auspices.

Their program begins and ends with "The Great Amen," and in between they sing anthems, spirituals, hymns, parts of motets and requiems, and folk songs.

The Victoria program proper starts with the Norwegian national anthem. Then come a Mozart transcription of a Gregorian chant, part of Mozart's Requiem and four 16th century songs.

Next are some dances by Grieg, Mozart's Alleluia, a solo "Cradle Song," more national dances from Norway and other countries, Norwegian folk songs such as "Calling the Cows Home From the High Mountains," and a courting dance.

The program ends with a group of hymns and spirituals.

Choir leader will be its founder, Ragnvold Bjarne, and accompanist will be Melvyn Simonson, who also plays some solos.

The 33-member choir is appearing here for the first time, although it toured 80 North American cities with considerable success in 1952. At home, the group is known as the "Olavsguttene," or "Olav's Boys," named for King Olav the Saint, who Christianized Norway more than 900 years ago.

YVONNE CHOUTEAU

Making her second appearance in Victoria, Yvonne Chouteau is only one of nine featured dancers with the Ballet Russe, appearing in the Royal Theatre at 8.30 p.m. Jan. 29. Stars are Nina Novak and Igor Youskevitch. With orchestra, the company will do the full two acts of "Giselle," "Pas de Trois" from "Paquita" and "Beau Danube."

Ice Capades Show Stars 'Peter Pan'

With the biggest cast and most varied program of its 12 years, Ice Capades will also bring cable drums to Victoria's Memorial Arena for its six shows Jan. 29 to Feb. 3.

Feature of the $1,000,000 ice show is a 30-minute version of "Peter Pan," starring England's Hazel Franklin, and feature of "Peter Pan" is a block-and-tackle arrangement allowing performers to fly through the air with the usual ease.

Cable drums are placed on either side of the arena, with the cable 30 feet above the floor, and pulleys are so arranged that performers "fly" as a stagehand pulls a rope below.

The arrangement was thought up by English producer Joseph Kirby, who provided it to the Jean Arthur and Mary Martin versions.

Ice Capades will come here for the second time, this time with 125 performers and 33 skaters. They are led by Miss Franklin, Aja Zanova, Silvia and Michel, Sandy Colbertson, several comics and Trixie, billed as "the world's greatest woman juggler."

Trixie (the last name isn't provided) has been trouping since she joined her father's circus in his native Austria when she was 10 years of age.

Her act is one of several "breaks" between such routines as Peter Pan, Black and White Ballet, Country Fair, Autorama, Fantasy In Pink and Bolero. Comic acts include a Davy Crockett routine and the "world's biggest dog."

Tickets are at Eaton's and Hudson's Bay stores.

Kidnappers Demanded . . . . . . Rings, Money, Body

Marie Turns Up

INDIO, Calif. (AP)—Blonde Marie McDonald, mumbling through swollen lips from a hospital bed, said yesterday two men took her at gunpoint from her Los Angeles home and abandoned her 24 hours later in the desert 150 miles away.

Detectives who questioned the 33-year-old glamor girl and former movie star said she told them the men demanded "your rings, your money and your body."

Los Angeles police said she told of being raped by her kidnappers but a doctor who examined her said he found no evidence of such an attack.

Miss McDonald — whose beautiful figure won her the nickname "The Body" — was wearing pajamas, robe and slippers when she popped into the lights of a truck shortly before midnight last night on a lonely desert highway. The truck driver brought her six miles into Indio.

Dr. Allen Fisher, who treated her at a hospital here, said she had two cracked teeth and abrasions on her cheek, neck and legs. H said there was "no evidence of any type of criminal attack."

Cautious at first over the possibility Miss McDonald's disappearance might be a hoax, police said after questioning her that "it was certainly a kidnapping."

She was in her pajamas preparing for bed about midnight Thursday when she heard a noise outside her bedroom and saw a man rubbing a stick along the fence, apparently to attract her Boxer dog.

When she looked out the window a man "with a sawed-off weapon" was standing beside it. He told her to call off the dog and let them in or he would shoot into the bedrooms of her 5-month-old daughter by her former husband, shoe manufacturer Harry Karl, and two 7-year-old children they had adopted.

The men, one about 35 and the other in his early 20's, stayed in the house about half-an-hour. They prepared a kidnap note and put it into the mailbox. They discussed holding her for $30,000 ransom.

The men let her put on a robe and slippers and pack some things in a small carrying case and then forced her at gunpoint into an old model two-door sedan parked on the street near the house.

After blindfolding her, they drove "for some time" to a small bungalow where the blindfold was removed and she was forced to swallow some pills. They made her feel "dopey" and she lay down on a sofa.

She stayed in the house the rest of the night and most of yesterday, and on three occasions, while one man was absent and the other in another room, she made telephone calls.

One of the men found her making the third call and twisted the phone from her hand and slapped her face. Then she was blindfolded again and put in a car.

The men discussed taking her to a hideout "across the state border" but after listening to radio reports of the kidnapping decided she was "getting too hot" and dumped her out along the highway. One of the men hit her in the face and pushed her into a ditch before they drove away.

After lying there about 10 minutes she crawled to the highway and watched three cars speed by without stopping before truck driver Richard D. Corn pulled his big rig to a grinding stop.

Wilding and Miss McDonald's mother, Mrs. Marie Tuboni, arrived at the hospital during the day, ready to take her home if the doctors decided she would be able to leave.

Dr. Fisher said she appeared to b. "in good condition" but declined to say when she would be permitted to go home.

Miss McDonald said that while they were in her house the men took some pearls and some diamond earrings, and that they stripped a "seven or eight" carat diamond ring from her finger before abandoning her.

Lee J. Cobb believes that with the success of such lengthy films as "War and Peace," "Ten Commandments," "Giant" and "Around the World in 80 Days," it's only a matter of time before somebody does "The Encyclopedia Britanica!"

Skiffle Songs Sweep Soho

By ROBERT RICE

LONDON (CP)—In Soho's sultry, smoke-grey basement world, the coffee house clan has discovered a new ingredient to add to frothy appuccino—the sad, folksy songs of skiffle players.

They go together, moody folk songs and the coffee house atmosphere of artists and writers, young thinkers and young dreamers. Perhaps it is a craze, something fashionable, but it seems deeper, to some almost a religion.

A true skiffle song is like a Negro spiritual or a plaintive cowboy refrain, mostly about women or trains or goodbyes. A skiffle group is generally two guitarists, a banjo player, a man on the thimble-and-washboard, plus a tub bass strummer to sound the rhythm.

"Ain't never had any money," the guitarist sings. "Don't want no house on the hill. All I ever had was you, babe . . . to sit and listen to my song."

"Why do I come here," said a 19-year-old model. "I'm not really sure. It transports me, I guess."

The banjo player, in a red sweater, with a heart locket flapping on a golden chain, takes over, clicking out a tune like a steam train behind schedule.

This has a real hot beat. Three teenagers do a "hand jive," like deaf-and-dumb signals to music, which is jiving for crowded places.

"Ten per cent come for the songs," says guitarist Roger K. Smith, "the rest just want the beat."

"Write your requests on a 10 shilling note," says a player. "And pass 'em to me." But no one does, and a new song begins.

Ro-mance without fi-nance is a noo-sance . . ."

I Know What I Like

By Tony Emery

Choose a Novel and Eviscerate It in 13 Minutes

TONY EMERY

I have been compelled to begin the New Year (which I sincerely hope will be a good one for you) with a burst of mental activity. The CBC has asked me to contribute my two cents worth to a series called "My Favorite Novel," and being avid for notoriety, money, etc., I accepted with alacrity. But it is no easy task to choose one novel from a couple of dozen well-tried favorites, and the length of the talk, 13¾ minutes, imposes another limitation.

As soon as I began to cast a mental eye over the field, characters and titles leaped out at me. "Tom Jones" is surely a certainty for the short list, and yet I find myself skipping passages in it, while in Fielding's smaller masterpiece of sustained irony, "Jonathan Wild," one could ill spare a single word. Here is "Vanity Fair" clamoring for inclusion. Leave out Becky and Rawdon and Jos?

And Dickens. If we take Pickwick, what of Copperfield and Nickleby? Choose one of them and we are forced to exclude Quilp and Fagan, Dick Swiveller and the Marchioness, Pecksniff and Sairy Gamp. Hardly a novel of Dickens' but has its fanatical partisans, and I would be at a loss to choose my own sole favorite from these well-loved books.

No less devoted are the Janeites, and here again it would be an embarrassing choice between my three favorites: "Pride and Prejudice," "Emma" and "Mansfield Park." George Eliot's "Middlemarch" assuredly belongs in any selection of great English novels, even if we exclude some of her other books.

We have not yet begun to consider the lesser novelists, whose creations are often treasured for their characters, for the world they introduce us to, or for the idiosyncrasies of their "offbeat" authors. Trollope and Peacock and Sterne come to mind in this connection: life would be dull indeed if one were unable to renew acquaintance with the Warden or Dr. Thorne, the Reverend Dr. Folliott or Seithenyn, Uncle Toby or the Widow Wadman.

Here's a monstrous long list, and we haven't yet looked outside Britain. Across the Channel, what a feast! Even if you find Balzac over-long and Zola gritty and tedious you must agree with my choice of Stendhal's "Scarlet and Black" as one of the great novels of all time, and I shall brook no argument over Flaubert except to allow a preference for longer, more loosely-constructed "Sentimental Education" instead of the flawless "Bovary." Coming nearer to our own day, we cannot exclude Proust's 12-volume masterpiece, so superbly translated by C. K. Scott-Moncrieff. And Gide? Barbusse? Alain Fournier? The names crowd thick and fast.

Flying across Europe we pick up Thomas Mann from Germany and Manzoni from Italy, Svevo from Trieste, Musil from Austria and here we are up against the Great Wall built of books by the Russian literary giants. Tolstoy's "War and Peace" goes on the list, with "Anna Karenina" a close second; Dostoievsky's "The Possessed," if not also "The Idiot" and the "The Brothers Karamazov," along with Turgeniev's "Fathers and Sons," and little gems like Goncharov's "Oblomov" and Shchedrin's "The Golofyov Family."

I haven't mentioned any really recent writers, although I think Joyce's "Ulysses" and Wyndham Lewis's "Tarr" two indubitable literary masterpieces; and I have a soft spot for the "younger" British novelists — Henry Green, Christopher Isherwood, Graham Greene, Anthony Powell, Ivy Compton-Burnett, L. P. Hartley, C. P. Snow—and their American counterparts: Hemingway, dos Passos, a little Faulkner, less Wolfe, and hardly any Fitzgerald, Mary McCarthy, Carson McCullers, Frederick Buechner and Nathanael West (whose "Day of the Locust" came close to being my eventual choice).

You wonder which book I have chosen for my radio talk? It's not one of the giants. Imagine trying to do justice to "War and Peace" or "Ulysses" in 13 minutes and 45 seconds! No, my choice is one which I re-read frequently, quote incessantly, and force on my friends. Hardly a day passes but it comes somehow to mind.

Its author has written many novels, but this is, I believe, his masterpiece. It's the only really good novel about a painter ever written: "The Horse's Mouth," by Joyce Cary.

Look Out, Elvis!

By JIM TAYLOR

Harry Belafonte is starting 1957 with the same upsurge that Elvis Presley showed in 1956, and like Presley, Belafonte is bringing with him a whole "new" field of music to the pop-record scene.

Whether Presley fans like it or not, their sideburned idol is about to be sidetracked by Belafonte, and rock 'n' role is going to get the same treatment from calypso music.

Belafonte could go up even faster than Presley, because unlike the Tennessee Twitch, he already has a solid fan club through his albums, which have been best-sellers for years. These fans could do a great deal toward promoting his single discs to the top of the list.

If, as the present trend indicates, calypso unseats rock 'n' role, those people who have been screaming "immoral music" needn't think they're going to be any better off than they were. One of the chief characteristics of calypso is its spicy lyrics, some of which could be considered worse than the worst vocals.

What started as the "Belafonte Boom" has now become the "Calypso Kick," and for our money the music is some of the best to come out in the past few years.

ROCK 'N' ROLL MOVIES: Three more R & R pictures are due at the Capitol Theatre the next month. "Rock, Rock, Rock" with the inevitable Allen Freed and the Teenagers is due Jan. 17 and "Shake, Rattle and Rock" with Fats Domino will be out late in February. But the best of the three is "The Girl Can't Help It" with Jayne Mansfield, The Tremers, The Chuckles, and a host of other top names . . . Paramount Pictures has purchased Dot Records for an estimated $3,000,000.

Car Carries Todd's Love

LONDON (AP) — Michael Todd bought the most expensive British automobile he could find for actress Elizabeth Taylor, then telephoned her in New York and told her the news.

"She seemed quite pleased," he said. She should. This is quite a car. It's going to have a bar—and a place where you can cook up a meal."

The stage and movie producer is ready to marry the movie star when it's legally possible. Miss Taylor filed suit for divorce against her husband, Michael Wilding, last November.

Todd was asked whether the new car would make Miss Taylor happy.

"There's no such thing as a happy actress," he said. "But I think I know a girl who's going to be a happy housewife."

"Cooking on an automobile stove?"

"Well, not exactly," he said, "I've bought a yacht, too."

The Entertainment Parade

Robin Wood Recital Starts Year

The year-end doldrums past, Victoria goes into the second half of the 1956-57 entertainment season this week with a bang.

In nine letters, it's Robin Wood.

The pianist begins things with a Musical Art Society recital in Metropolitan United Church at 8.30 Tuesday—music by Scarlatti, Bach, Brahms, Chopin, Debussy and Liszt.

Next, he's with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra in the Royal Theatre a week from this afternoon and tomorrow night, playing Brahms' first concerto and Bach's Brandenburg concerto No. 5, the latter with violinist Clifford Evens and flautist Mickey Crawford.

Finally, Mr. Wood and his wife, Winifred Scott, give a joint recital for the Musical Art group in Metropolitan Church at 8.30 Jan. 25.

Tickets for all three events are in short supply. It's Eaton's for the symphony and Hudson's Bay, Ward's and Western Music stores for the recitals.

At the symphony concerts, incidentally, the orchestra will do Beethoven's fourth and will thereby have done all of the Beethoven symphonies during the regime of Hans Gruber.

* * *

Also this month, the Singing Boys of Norway are here Jan. 24; the Ballet Russe, Jan. 29, and Ice Capades, Jan. 29 to Feb. 3. Details are elsewhere on these pages.

* * *

Say that a movie shouldn't be seen and people will go to see it.

With "Baby Doll" receiving such fire, Warners report that demand from theatres is so great that 75 extra prints have been made. The film now has been booked in 1,118 theatres in the United States and Canada.

* * *

Latest youngster to win a film plum is Jean Seberg, 18-year-old pharmacist's daughter from Marshalltown, Iowa.

Otto Preminger, who dared to make "The Moon Is Blue" and "Man With the Golden Arm," has cast Miss Seberg for his "Saint Joan," with supporting actors Sir John Gielgud, Richard Widmark, Richard Todd, Anton Walbrook, Barry Jones and Felix Aylmer.

Widmark, the big surprise, will play the Dauphin.

Gordie Robertson looks on smilingly as Craig Lawson sweeps a short rock thrown by Bill Dunstan Jr. during first end of last night's British Consols game between rinks skipped by Tony Gutoski and Bob McIntosh. Robertson, Lawson and Dunstan are the other members of Gutoski's rink, which won, 10-5.

Jim Tang's TACKLE BOX

Looking back at 1956 again brings the thoughts that some of the best moments came when out fishin'. It wasn't a particularly good year for salmon but there is seldom such a thing as a bad fishing trip. It's great when you catch a salmon or two and great just to be dangling a line in the water.

Most of my fishing was done Up-Island, and there wasn't a wasted trip. I suppose the highlight came at Nahmint, where Babs Jaggard and I managed to boat four silver Tyees, one of them a 46-pounder which fulfilled a promise to win the Victoria Press' competition in the Colonist's King Fisherman Contest, made when employees were barred from fishing in the main contest and given one of their own as a sort of a consolation. Wilson & Lenfesty donated the prize and it was a moment to treasure when Stan Williams made the presentation.

But there was fun, and salmon, too, at Bates Beach, where genial George Bates made every trip worth while and took time off to take me to Phillips Arm. We didn't find any Tyees there but it didn't matter much. The first look at that B.C. coastline made the effort more than worth while and I'd go back again, even if there wasn't much chance the fish would be in.

One can also recall the hospitality of Bob and Mrs. Ennis at the Elk Hotel on other trips to the Comox-Courtenay area, and the enjoyment of having fish-happy Bill Defty as a partner. And there was the time, while holidaying at Qualicum Beach with Hugh Lyons, when I came back from Comox Bay with a 34-pounder which was only second best a few hours later. Hugh, out with his family in the evening, boasted a bigger one in Qualicum Bay, which, incidentally, is often overlooked as one of the Island's better fishing spots.

Then there were two or three fine trips aboard the Jercy J, and the winning, as usual, of the annual wager with Cliff Heglin. Even more satisfactory was the winning of a wager with Andy Anderson, who believed he had a cinch when he bet that Seth Halton wouldn't catch a salmon weighing 20 pounds or more. And, of course, there were those mad moments when Babs Jaggard hooked a fish. I'd just don a life belt and lay down in the bottom of the boat and hope for the best.

There were other highlights, too many of them to write about. Just thinking about them is enough to make one know life isn't too tough when you can go fishing and to realize my lines have been dry far too long—more than two months now.

VSIAA MEETING: Annual meeting of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association will be held at the Strocco Supper Club on Monday, January 14, starting at 8 p.m.

One of the main items on the agenda is a recommendation to revise the constitution and members will be asked to vote on new by-law proposals.

Election of officers is also another important item and while the naming of a new president will have to await the wishes of the members, one hears that veteran Frank Nuttall looms as the likely successor to president Jack Clyde.

Annual meeting of the Chinook Club is scheduled for next month but the date has yet to be set.

LICENCE DISCUSSION: The proposed salt-water fishing licence for non-residents will be discussed by the Tourist Trade Group of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting at the Pacific Club, next Friday starting at 6 p.m.

What action the group may take is not yet known. Chairman Sam Lane informs that he would like to have both sides of the contentious issue discussed and it could be that the group will only oppose the proposed cost of the proposed licence. Most of those who have no objection to the licence appear to feel that $10 is too much.

Earlier rock, delivered by lead Bill McIntosh, gets the full broom treatment from cigar-smoking Don Jamieson and hard-working Ivan Wood of the McIntosh rink, which stayed close until a five-ender settled it in the eighth end.

Gutoski Rink Reaches Island Consols Finals

Tony Gutoski's favored rink, upset in the first of the double knockout competitions, last night won the right to be one of the two rinks which will represent Victoria in the Vancouver Island British Consols zone final.

Breaking open a tense game with a smashing five-ender on the eighth end, the Gutoski rink defeated Bob McIntosh, 10-5, before a large crowd at the Victoria Curling Club.

BLANK ENDS

It was a 3-3 tie after seven ends with the second and fourth ends blanked. Gutoski didn't get in front until he managed two on the sixth end to go ahead, 3-2.

McIntosh promptly tied it with one on the seventh but there were too many misses on the fatal eighth and Gutoski was laying four when he went into the hack for the end's last shot. He drew in for the five and McIntosh's chance for an upset ended there.

McIntosh got one back on the ninth but Gutoski added two in the 10th and it was just a question of playing the last 32 rocks. McIntosh got his fifth point on the 11th end but didn't get a chance to start building a house on the 12th.

Gutoski's rink now joins the Navy foursome skipped by Wes Young in the Island finals, at Duncan next Saturday and Sunday, against two rinks from each of the Alberni Valley, Nanaimo and Duncan Curling Clubs.

PLAY TOMORROW

The final is a round-robin competition with three games billed Saturday and three on Sunday. Rinks will play their clubmates on home ice before going to Duncan. Gutoski and Young meet tomorrow night at 9.

Curling with Young are John Adams, Bert Watts and Jim Redlin. Adams replaces Bob Gray, who has been drafted, and will take over as vice-skip.

Scottish Curlers Meet V.I. Rinks Wednesday

Twenty-six Scottish curlers arrive in Victoria Wednesday morning to compete against five Vancouver Island rinks at the Victoria Curling Club as part of their cross-Canada tour in defence of the Strathcona Cup.

The Scots began their 20-game series at Montreal yesterday. Aggregate scores compiled on the tour will decide the winner of the cup, which has been held four times by each side. It was first presented in 1919 by Lord Strathcona to commemorate the first visit of a Canadian club to Scotland.

Warriors Knock Off Amerks While Stamps Blank Royals

Winnipeg's scrappy Warriors, who couldn't make it at Victoria Friday night, rebounded last night to upset Seattle Americans on their home ice, 6-5, in overtime.

It was the second defeat in as many nights for the leaders of the Western Hockey League's Western Division. For the Warriors, who had lost 14 in a row, it was their third win in their last six games and, if one wants to be mean about it, their third in 20 games.

Calgary	35	14	20	1	112	114	29
Winnipeg	39	11	26	2	117	154	24

Last night's scores: Winnipeg 6 at Seattle 5; New Westminster 0 at Calgary 6; Edmonton 1 at Brandon 3.

Next game: Monday, Vancouver at VICTORIA.

Other games last night saw Brandon Regals end Edmonton Flyers' win streak at six games with a 3-1 win on Brandon ice and Calgary Stampeders blast New Westminster Royals, 6-0, at Calgary.

Danny Summers, veteran defenceman who had scored only twice previously this season, potted the winning goal on a solo dash after taking a pass from rookie Pat Hannigan.

Warriors took a 3-2 lead in the second period after trailing by 1-0 after the first period. The Manitobans had 4-2 and 5-3 leads in the third period but couldn't stop Americans from forcing overtime.

FIRST IN OVERTIME

However, Summers' goal handed Seattle its first overtime defeat in six overtime games, to the chagrin of about 5,000 fans.

The first goal didn't mean anything at Brandon either as Regals scored twice in the second period to take the lead, then added the clincher through the final 20 minutes.

Action was on the furious side, with the Edmonton club taking three misconduct penalties, a major and 10 minors, and also indulging in a scrap with some enthusiastic fans.

The big flare-up came in the game's final minutes, starting when Edmonton's Tom McCarthy drew five minutes for hitting Howie Milford on the head hard enough to draw blood.

FIERCE ACTION

Teammate Jim Hay abused officials verbally over McCarthy's penalty and drew a misconduct. Both players were on their way to the dressing room when one of the 3,300 fans tangled with Hay. The whole Edmonton team immediately came to Hay's rescue and there was some heated action for a few minutes.

Flyers, who drew 57 of the 65 minutes in penalties, had their share of the play but couldn't beat a sizzling Lucien Dechene more than once.

Stampeders delighted 4,683 fans by ending a four-game losing streak in decisive fashion. Sophomore Dave Duke and rookie Milan Marcetta each scored twice against the tired Royals, playing their sixth game in nine days.

Television brought National Hockey League action into North American homes for the first time yesterday, and fans saw a lot of rugged action as New York Rangers dumped Chicago Black Hawks, 4-1. Beliveau's Goal Stands Up; Habs Tie Bruins for Second

Jean Beliveau's goal in the first two minutes of National Hockey League play at Montreal Saturday night stood up all the way as the Canadiens took 1-0 a bitterly-fought game from Detroit Red Wings.

In Toronto, the Maple Leafs edged Boston Bruins 3-2. And in the afternoon New York Rangers whipped Chicago Black Hawks, 4-1, in the league's first nationally televised game from Madison Square Gardens.

Toronto	37	12	18	7	87	97	31
Chicago	38	8	25	5	75	110	21

Yesterday's scores: Boston 2 at Toronto 3; Detroit 0 at Montreal 1; Chicago 1 at New York 4.

Next games, tonight: Boston at Chicago; Toronto at Detroit; Montreal at New York.

Montreal's win tied them in points with Boston in second place, one point behind Detroit. New York and Toronto remained tied in the fourth spot with Chicago still in the cellar.

GOOD ACTION

The Montreal game was replete with speed, sharp and highly-effective checking and spectacular goal-tending by both Jacques Plante of Montreal and Glenn Hall. The shutout was Plante's sixth of the season — his first since last Nov. 4.

The driving offensives and solid defensive work by both teams brought 14 penalties — seven each way — in a game that was comparatively free of rough work as the teams stuck to wide open hockey and had the crowd of 13,770 in an uproar much of the way.

Beliveau's goal was his 22nd of the season. It was a spectacular piece of individual work as he grabbed the puck deep in the Montreal end, came straight down centre and split the Detroit defence of Red Kelly and Al Arbour. Then Beliveau flipped the puck past them, barged between the defencemen and went in to score against Hall.

BREAK SLUMP

The Maple Leafs broke out of a scoring famine that extended over two games.

The first period ended with the Leafs, outplayed for much of the time, holding a 2-0 lead. The second period was scoreless and Toronto added a third goal early in the final frame before the Bruins rammed in two tallies and were pressing the Leafs desperately for the tying marker in the final minute.

Centres George Armstrong and Brian Cullen and leftwinger Sid Smith were the Toronto marksmen. The Boston goals were by defenceman Allan Stanley and leftwinger Real Chevrefils.

Rookie referee Bob Frampton—attempting to keep the game under control—handed out 11 penalties over the first 40 minutes with two major sentences to Flaman and rearguard Al MacNeil for fighting.

New York's victory was the fifth this season over the Black Hawks.

Andy Bathgate, assisted by Dean Prentice and Lou Fontinato, put New York ahead at 8.08 of the first period.

What proved to be the winning goal came mid-way in the second frame when Larry Popein scored with assists from Bathgate and Harry Howell.

Then, in the third period, New York scored two goals in the final 34 seconds after the cellar-dwelling Black Hawks had threatened with a goal by Glen Skov when the period was only 44 seconds old. The Rangers' final goals were scored by Bruce Cline 19.26 and by Danny Lewicki at 19.46.

Host Canucks

Crucial Week Starts For Cougars Monday

Victoria Cougars start another of those important weeks tomorrow night when they host Vancouver Canucks at Memorial Arena in a crucial "four-pointer."

Cougars got help last night from Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Warriors, who knocked off New Westminster Royals and Seattle Americans, respectively, and could make big gains this week. They follow with a game here against Seattle on Friday and play at New Westminster Saturday.

CANUCKS A PROBLEM

Canucks, however, are posing quite a problem for other Western Hockey League clubs these days. Although they have been shorthanded and are still without the services of high-scoring Jackie McLeod, they have boomed from last place to second in the Western Division.

They have lost only to Americans in their last 10 games, and while they absorbed 7-1 and 9-2 thumpings, they came right back Friday night to hand the Seattle club its first shutout of the season, 4-0.

In the other seven games, they have beaten Cougars twice, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg once each, and tied with New Westminster and Brandon.

Leading the Vancouver attack is, as usual, smooth Phil Maloney, who may be the best hockey player in the league. But the veteran centre has had a lot of scoring help from little Wiggie Wylie, always a nuisance as far as the Cougars are concerned; Fred Brown, who has scored nine goals in the last 10 games, and Earl Johnson, who has gotten a new lease on life since being put alongside Maloney.

In the last two games between Canucks and Cougars, won by Canucks in overtime, Maloney twice tied the score and then set up Johnson for the winning shot in the extra period.

NO CHANGE

Cougars will likely go with the same line-up which bested Winnipeg, 3-1, on Friday night. Which would mean they'll again use their five defencemen with Don Chiupka pivoting for Wayne Brown and Larry Leach on one forward line.

Gordie Haworth, Bruce Carmichael and George Ranieri will form another line and the Doug Anderson-Colin Kilburn-Doug Macauley line will be intact.

One of the interested spectators tomorrow will be Lynn Patrick, general-manager of the parent Boston Bruins. He is due to arrive today and will be here at least for the next three games as he takes a good look at the players he hopes some day will be playing with his club in the NHL.

City Bantams Beat Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Les Brice scored three goals here last night as Victoria bantam all-stars defeated Nanaimo bantams, 4-2, in a rough, free-skating exhibition minor hockey game.

Victoria had a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period. Nanaimo pulled within a single goal at 3-2 in the second period, but Brice got his third goal of the night in the final 20 minutes to give the visitors their margin.

Barry Latham scored Victoria's other goal, while Bob Anderson and Jim Galbraith each picked up a pair of assists. Zolob and Martin scored a goal apiece for Nanaimo.

Athletics Win

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Alberni Athletics drubbed Vancouver Eilers, 71-53, in a keenly-fought Senior "A" basketball game here Saturday night.

The win before 700 fans was the second straight for the Athletics. Friday night's score was 78-69 in favor of the Alberni team over Eilers.

Attendance Slumps . . . . . . In East, Far West

Grid Fans Voice Protest Over Restrictions

By MORT SCHWARTZ

NEW YORK (NANA)—The fans have cast votes of criticism against new restrictions on college football, a region-by-region survey of attendance statistics has indicated.

The study of spectator reaction showed that only 1,189,717 fans attended games in the Far West during 1956, compared to 3,078,165 the year before—a drop of 1,888,448.

In the East, the slump in football popularity was smaller—the crowds dropping a total of 11,598, from 2,193,095 to 2,181,497. But it must be matched against the fact that attendances in the Midwest, South and Southwest simultaneously increased.

As usual, the football-healthy Midwest ticket-buying fans proved most numerous. A total of 4,506,854 attended football games during the 1956 season, 273,954 more than the year before. The University of Michigan team attracted a grand total of 566,096 spectators, largest total in the nation, while Ohio State registered the highest average per home game with 82,429.

The South's football crowds increased by 168,053 to 3,137,991 in 1956; the Southwest increase was 126,842 to 1,969,007.

Obviously behind the football popularity slumps in east and far west were between-season actions tending to cut into calibre of play.

Severe disciplinary actions were meted in the Pacific Coast conference. UCLA and Southern California, most heavily penalized, registered overwhelming attendance losses. UCLA averaged 43,076 fans per home game in 1956, compared to 60,638 the year before. Southern Cal's home game decline was from 66,301 to 51,157.

The eastern slump reflected the new, more restrictive Ivy League policies against "professionalism" in the sport. The only bright spot in eastern football attendance was at the University of Pittsburgh, which showed a total crowd increase of 184,782 over 1955. Pitt had the best team in the East.

The survey covered 117 colleges and universities. Nation-wide, the 1956 season lured 12,985,066 spectators through the turnstiles, 2.3 per cent under the 1955 figure of 13,316,263—with the bulk of the decline in the Far West.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Judging from what one saw yesterday on television, Gump Worsley is the fellow most responsible for any success the New York Rangers have had this season. Chicago Black Hawks appeared to be the better club but the little New York goalie [illegible] in keeping the puck out of his net. There were times when he made you think it was impossible to get it past him, and when Hawks finally did, it was only because someone didn't make a clearance when Gump was out of play.

Andy Hebenton was easily recognizable every time he came out on the ice. His hard-working, intent style hasn't changed a bit but there was a polish and a dispatch to his play which made him look as if he really belonged with hockey's best, which, of course, he does.

And, watching the Rangers was just like old home week to a Western Hockey League fan. Jack Evans, who skates as well as any defenceman, and Andy Bathgate, who drips with talent, were other WHL grads who caught the eye. Also in action were Larry Popein and Lou Fontinato.

Phtography of the play-by-play action was good but the production of the first nationally-televised National Hockey League game was spoiled by dreary, kindergarten-type explanations, particularly between periods.

One realizes that it is reasonable to presume that most of the TV fans haven't seen much, if any, hockey and don't know much about its laws but one doubts the wisdom of trying to educate them with boring explanation. The game has enough to offer. Just turn the cameras on the best action, let a good announcer explain situations as they arise, and the game will take care of the rest. Hockey, spectator wise, is close to the ideal sport. It provides speed and action and it is not necessary to have more than an elementary knowledge of its rules to enjoy it. Thousands of Canadians watch American football, both college and professional varieties, and enjoy it although most know little about the rules, and football is a far more involved game than hockey. Spectators want a show, not a lesson. Give them a show and you've made a fan.

Ex-Cougar Bob Frampton is refereeing in the National Hockey League, or at least he was until critical New York observers landed on him after a game in Madison Square Garden. The Rangers won but it didn't matter, one writer charging that Frampton "was obviously out of his depth." . . . It's a wonder that professional basketball draws as well as it does. In recent National Basketball Association games, there were 77 and 65 foul shots scored and a few missed, which means that it must have taken more than two hours to play a 48-minute game. Lining up at the foul line can get very boring. . . . Bill Russell, the U.S. Olympic basketball star didn't waste any time setting new NBA records. In his fourth game he set new highs by grabbing 16 rebounds in the first quarter and 22 in the first half. He missed the game record of 39 by five, however. . . . It looks more and more as if that proposed new stadium for Brooklyn isn't going to be built and if it isn't, one can expect the Dodgers to have a new home within a few years, perhaps in Los Angeles. However, any move requires the unanimous consent of the other seven National League clubs and the New York Giants won't give up the inter-city rivalry without some compensation. Last season, for example, nine dates at the Polo Grounds with the Dodgers attracted 241,467 paying customers while 66 games against the other six clubs pulled in only about 360,000 fans. . . . Alex Straith is off for an extended Florida vacation during which he expects to have a look at several major league baseball training camps. . . . Going into last night's games, Bill Dobbyn of the Cougars led the Western Hockey League in penalties with 102 minutes. Pressing hard were Bill Burega, with 101 minutes, and Pete Durham, with 99 minutes. Gaining, at 90 minutes, was rookie Noel Price of Winnipeg. . . . Robinson May Quit Baseball

Jackie Robinson, who was traded to the New York Giants Dec. 13 after 10 seasons with the Brooklyn Dodgers, will announce in a copyrighted article in Look Magazine Tuesday that he is "quitting baseball for good because I have to think of the future and the security of my family."

Robinson, who broke baseball's color line in 1947 and sparked the Dodgers to six pennants, said he reached his decision before being traded to the Giants, but could not disclose his plans because he had previously agreed to give the story exclusively to Look.

In an article entitled "Why I Am Quitting Baseball," the 38-year-old Robinson summed his decision up by saying, "From now on I'll be just another fan—a Brooklyn fan."

"I'm through with baseball because I know that in a matter of time, baseball would have been through with me. After you've reached your peak there's no sentiment in baseball. They move you around like a used car. I didn't want that."

CASPER LEADS: Chunky Billy Casper, Jr., a newcomer to the tournament golf trail, fired his second successive 68 yesterday for a 36-hole total of 136 and a one-stroke lead in the $35,000 Los Angeles Open. Gardner Dickinson was one stroke back, and tourney favorite Jack Burke, Jr., had a round of 69 for a 138 total. . . . Saskatchewan Roughriders took the first step towards rebuilding their shattered front line for the 1957 football season yesterday by signing Bill Glass of Baylor, 21-year-old, 235-pound guard, the only U.S. college gridder named to all recognized all-American teams. . . . Ottawa Rough Riders have signed brilliant pass-catching end Bernie Flowers, who played with the club in 1953. . . . Brooklyn Dodgers signed pitchers, Don Drysdale, Ken Lehman and Karl Spooner yesterday, and invited Rene Valdez, 22-game winner with Portland of the Pacific Coast League, to try out with the club.

Both universities are top contenders for the basketball title this season . . . Al Kaline, Detroit Tigers' outfielder, said yesterday that his salary squabble with the Tigers has been "blown out of all proportion," but indicated that he is still asking for almost $32,000, about $6,000 more than he got last year . . . Paul Hoy Helms, founder of the Helms Athletic Foundation which gave more than $1,000,000 to honor world athletes, died of cancer yesterday after a lengthy illness . . . All-American guard Jim Parker of Ohio State, who was on Winnipeg Blue Bombers' negotiation list, has signed with Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

Ike's Had Enough

Martinez Willing To Meet Saddler

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UP) — Featherweight Isidro Martinez of Panama was "ready for all comers" but his latest victim, Ike Chestnut, conceded, "I never want to see him again."

"I'll take on anybody including Sandy Saddler," said Martinez after his unanimous, upset 10-round decision over Chestnut in Friday night's nationally-televised bout. "I intend to stay in the United States and maybe become a citizen. Chestnut was not too tough."

Martinez made an impressive U.S. debut as he bobbed and weaved through 10 rounds that had the 10th-ranked featherweight contender thoroughly confused.

"I never fought anybody like that guy before," the still-bewildered Chestnut admitted. "He shocked and confused me from the beginning. A return match is up to my manager but as far as I'm concerned, I never want to see him again."

Robbins on Five-Goal Spree As Butlers Reach Cup Semis

Centre-forward George Robbins booted Butler Brothers into the semi-finals of the Jackson Cup competition for the Vancouver Island soccer championship yesterday, scoring five goals in the first half as Butlers routed Punjab United, 7-0, at Royal Athletic Park.

Robbins started things off with the game 20 minutes old, driving a shot through the hands of goalie Bunt Baines. He scored again three minutes later on a solo effort, and added three more to his total during the next 10 minutes in the biggest individual scoring performance of the season.

Bill Abbott and Lionel Speller each headed in one goal in the second half, Speller's marker coming on a cross from Robbins.

Butlers will meet Esquimalt in one cup semi-final, at a date to be determined later.

BRODIES WIN

In yesterday's only Victoria and District Football League match, Alf Haggen scored a goal midway through the second half to give Brodie's Bakery a 3-2 victory over Esquimalt at Reynolds Road Park.

Esquimalt had a 2-1 lead at halftime on goals by Keith Todd and Tommy Druce. Don Jones opened scoring for the Bakers and Don Hughes tied the score at 2-2 early in the second half.

Two games are scheduled this afternoon at 2. Tillicums take on Canadian Scottish in a first-round Jackson Cup match at Beacon Hill Park while Gorge Hotel meets Heaneys in a league fixture at Central Park.

Dodgers Buy Airplane But Deny Coast Move

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—President Walter O'Malley of the Brooklyn Dodgers wasn't saying Saturday whether there was more to the purchase of an airplane for the club than transportation.

O'Malley bought a $775,000 44-passenger transport for the club Friday and hinted that the plane might be useful if the Dodgers ever decide to leave Brooklyn.

The Dodger president signed a contract with Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. for delivery of one of its model 440 metropolitan twin-engine transports about March 15.

FIRST CLUB

This is the first time a major league club has bought an airplane," O'Malley said. "We tried a plane once before experimentally to transport our farm clubs but the DC-3 we used was too small and we decided to get a bigger plane."

Asked if purchase of the plane might indicate that the club was planning to move to the west coast, O'Malley said:

"If any club should go to the west coast, it would have to fly and it would have to own an airplane. But our future for the time being is in Brooklyn."

O'Malley said the plane would be used to carry Brooklyn's farm clubs—the Montreal Royals, the St. Paul Saints and the Ft. Worth Cats—as well as the Dodgers.

The craft is equipped with reclining seats and facilities for four card games. There is enough space for equipment and luggage of players, coaches, trainers, writers, and club executives.

Famed aviator Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Airlines, helped O'Malley pick the Dodgers' plane.

Publicity Body Will Oppose Fishing Fees

A federal government proposal for imposing special sport fishing licences in tidal waters for nonresidents will meet objection from the Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau.

Bureau directors said the licence would be detrimental to the growing tourist industry on Vancouver Island and immediately sent a letter to the federal fisheries department registering opposition to the proposal.

The proposed regulation would mean non-resident fishermen over 16 years of age would be charged $10 for a licence, and under 16 would have to pay a $1 fee.

Edmonton Cage Team Can't Enter Playoffs

EDMONTON (BUP)—The Edmonton Towne Hallers basketball team will not operate this year, team manager Clare Hollingsworth announced in Edmonton Saturday.

Hallers were Canadian finalists in 1956, finishing second in the combined Canadian finals and Olympic trials tournament in Vancouver to the British Columbia Totems.

MISSED DEADLINE

John Laqua of Raymond, Alberta, registrar and secretary-treasurer of the Alberta Amateur Basketball Association, informed the Edmonton team manager earlier this week that Towne Hallers missed the team entry deadline and so were not able to participate in the provincial playoffs.

Hollingsworth said Don Steed, also of Raymond, southern zone organizer, wanted the Towne Hallers to make a deal with the only other senior team in the province — Southern Alberta Chinooks.

"If the AABA wants to let us in and follow the playoff schedule that's fine, but anything less than that won't do. I think they want us to start crying and begging them so that we will have to obligate ourselves to them but that is out . . . we're out and Chinooks are the automatic senior champions," Hollingsworth said.

It took the club three days to get a team formed following the return of star Ed Lucht from the Olympics, where he played on Canada's cage squad, to forward their entry to Laqua. By then it was over two days late and the entry was turned down, despite a plea earlier in 1956 by the Canadian body that all branches show leniency in such cases because it was an Olympic year.

Mormon Players Use Polite Code Of Court Ethics

TORONTO (CP)—Mormon Elders, Ottawa league basketball team coached by National Social Credit party leader Solon Low, don't believe that nice guys don't win.

The Elders have a code of ethics far different from many teams. If they knock an opponent down, they help him up. They never retaliate, even if they suspect foes of deliberate fouls.

They showed what they could do here recently in an exhibition game against Toronto Tridents. They led 49-48 with only 15 seconds to play but lost 50-49.

The players call Mr. Low "brother"; he calls them "elder"; they call each other "elder." Although the players are all in their early 20s, seldom do they address each other by first names.

Mr. Low has none of the personnel problems that plague many other coaches. The players don't cuss or smoke, and there are no nighthawks.

"All members of our team are ordained ministers," explains Elder Nickell, 21-year-old native of Utah who was picked for all-state when he was playing high school ball.

"All of us are donating our time to the church. There are no paid clergy in the Mormon faith. We are dependent on our parents or interested groups for our living expenses. Some of the members depend on their wives, who have jobs."

The Elders' polite habits would lend support to the belief that they are inviting the tough guys to run them out of the league. But if they run into dirty play, they call it to the attention of the referee.

They consider it unfair to needle an opponent into a penalty. But if they can draw a foul from a rival, they consider it sound play.

Elder Bryson, 24-year-old "bad man" of the team, confesses to fouling out in three of the Mormons' five league games. But he pleads inexperience, eagerness, even clumsiness, but no malintent.

The Mormons live in twosomes during their two-year missionary stint in Canada, doing their own cooking and thus holding absolute reign over athletic diets.

The team sometimes shocks the janitor of a gym in which they have been playing. He discovers the Elders have delayed their departure long enough to clean up their dressing room.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness," says Elder Bryson.

Getting pre-game instructions from their coach, politician Solon Low, are K. Nickell, left, and M. Bryson of the Ottawa Mormon Elders, a basketball team composed of ordained ministers.—(CPC)

Soccer Final Big Event Of New School Season

By MURRAY HOLMES

High school athletes return to their classrooms Monday and will soon begin the training grind for the 1957 sports schedule. But for two school teams at least there is still some unfinished business left over from 1956.

Oak Bay and Victoria High School senior soccer clubs have still to play the final game of their best-of-three series for the Colonist Cup, and it is expected that the game will be one of the first sports events on the year's agenda.

Oak Bay won the first game, 2-1, but the Victoria High forward line returned to scoring form to take the second game, 4-2. On the basis of season performances, the outcome of the third game is a toss-up.

As to the 1957 sports scene, Vic High and Oak Bay figure to battle each other down the line in every sport but basketball, in which the Victoria College Vikings are rated superior to any school team on the Island.

CHANCES SLIM

Vic High Totems, who in past seasons have run away from every school team in Greater Victoria, will likely be good enough to beat out local schools again this year, but their chances for another Island title appear slim at the moment.

Totems defeated Alberni High Chieftains in the Island final last year and were beaten in the provincial playoffs by Lester Pearson High, which went on to win the championship.

However, this year coach Porky Andrews has lost his entire first string through graduation, and with reports of a couple of strong teams up-Island, Totems face a tough task in a bid for the title.

Vikings, with such stars as Tommy English, Art Chiko, Bob Tomlinson, Ed Kowalyk, Waldo Skillings and Ken McCulloch, should have little trouble in winning the Inter-Scholastic tournament, which went to the Totems last year.

CLOSE BATTLE

Oak Bay and Vic High shared the Howard Russell Cup for the senior rugby title last year and this year's series could be just as close, with a strong forward unit perhaps giving Victoria High a bit of an edge.

It is in inter-high swimming that the Bays should make their biggest mark in inter-high sport. Oak Bay won the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy for the sixth straight time last year and with several members of the powerful YMCA swimming club in the fold, it will take a lot of doing to prevent them from stretching their streak.

Ian Fraser, the slender "grasshopper" of Victoria High School, aided by a pair of promising newcomers in Guy Price and Ed Pomeroy, should carry the Vic High cross-country squad to another B.C. title. Fraser, one of the best runners ever to come out of Victoria, won all three classes of the Canadian Legion road races in the past three years.

The Inter-high track meet, won last year by Victoria High by 13 points over Oak Bay, may provide the closest race of all this season. Junior champions Ann McKechnie of Oak Bay and big Rick Kelsall of Vic High will both be back for a try at senior honors, and both schools have some promising track enthusiasts among the juniors.

Kerr, Court Defend Today

Laurie Kerr and Bill Court of Colwood Golf Club will defend the city Open golf buttons for the first time today when they play the Victoria Golf Club pair of Doug Munro and Einar Brynjolson at 12.30 at Uplands Golf Club.

Court is playing with Kerr in place of his original partner, George "Porky" Andrews, who has retired from the game.

The junior buttons will also be defended today at Uplands 15 minutes later, when defending champions Dale Dalziel and Bill Wakelyn play Noel Dalziel and Bob Ashton. All are from Uplands.

Lucky to Survive . . . . . . Third Round of Cup

Manchester U in Close Scrape

LONDON (Reuters)—Manchester United—hot favorite for the English Football Association Cup—was lucky to survive Saturday's third round, scraping by third-division Hartlepools United 4-3.

In the first 30 minutes it looked like a United walk-away as Manchester banged home three goals. But Hartlepools suddenly came to life and before a capacity 17,300 home fans tied the score at 3-3 with 20 minutes to go.

Manchester United inside-right Billy Whelan managed to sew up the game with 14 minutes left with the deciding goal.

Biggest upset of the third-round play came from little Welsh team Rhyl Athletic, which defeated second division Notts County, 3-1.

ONLY ONE BEATEN

Only one of the four non-league clubs which reached Saturday's third round where first and second division teams joined the fray—were defeated. Non-league Goole Town was battered 6-0 by second division Nottingham Forest and non-league New Brighton beat one of the top third division southern teams as it edged Torquay United 2-1.

Non-league Peterborough United which has established a giant-killer record in past seasons, drew 2-2 with second-division Lincoln City.

First-division Blackpool, winner over Bolton in the 1953 cup final, defeated the same team, 3-2, at Bolton. Stanley Matthews set up the pass for the winning goal by Jackie Mudie.

Manchester City and Newcastle United, the 1955 cup finalists, drew 1-1 at Newcastle. Birmingham City, beaten by Manchester City in last year's final, could only draw 3-3 with third-division Carlisle United.

Crowds massed outside the gates chanting "We want the ref" after Fulham beat Ipswich, 3-2, at Ipswich. An Ipswich forward got the ball in the net as the referee sounded the final whistle but the goal was disallowed.

HEARING IMPROVED

. . . thousands report. Blessed relief from years of suffering from poor hearing and miserable ear noises, caused by catarrh of the head! That's what these folks (many past 70) reported after using our simple Elmo Palliative HOME TREATMENT. This may be the answer to your prayer. Nothing to wear. Here are SOME of the symptoms that may likely go with your catarrhal deafness and ear noises: Mucus dropping in throat. Head feels stopped up by mucus. Mucus in nose or throat every day. Hear — but don't understand words. Hear better on clear days — worse on rainy days, or with a cold. Ear noises like crickets, bells, whistles, clicking or escaping steam or many other. If your condition is caused by catarrh of the head, you, too, may likely enjoy such wonderful relief as many others have reported during our past 18 years. WRITE TODAY FOR PROOF OF RELIEF AND 30 DAY TRIAL OFFER.

The original Hotel Armour as it was called was without siding or paint, and contained seven sleeping rooms, a dining room, kitchen and saloon. It stood in a setting of new stumps and faced a trail which later became Argyle Street.

More than one emergency operation was performed in a room of the New Alberni before the district had a hospital. It was the centre of all activities as the city grew up around it.

Light on the Dark Continent

AFRICA, once aptly called the "Dark Continent" is still an exciting land of wild game, bold scenery, and until recently primitive ways of life now in various stages of advancement.

Primitive but effective are these fish traps used by the Congo River fisherman in a stretch of rapids at Leopoldville, Belgian Congo. Photographer Fred Latham, who visited the area recently, brings ISLANDER readers to Africa in a series.

The People of Brentwood Had the Will and Eventually Found the Way to Build Themselves

A BRIGHT, WHITE CHAPEL

BRENTWOOD BAY UNITED CHURCH was packed to overflowing when a congregation, which included many representatives from the other religious groups in the community, listened to Dr. W. S. Taylor, president of Union Theological College in Vancouver, as he dedicated the new church to its Christian work. That was Nov. 8, 1956. To many in that gathering it was the culmination of two years of planning, hard work and faith.

AS A LITTLE GIRL Jayne Mansfield did more than dream of being a movie star. She worked hard to make it happen. She struggled to pay for her singing and dancing lessons by addressing envelopes, selling candy and doing any type of work to save money toward her career. When she finally came to Hollywood her contract with a valley studio lasted only six months but she was not discouraged.

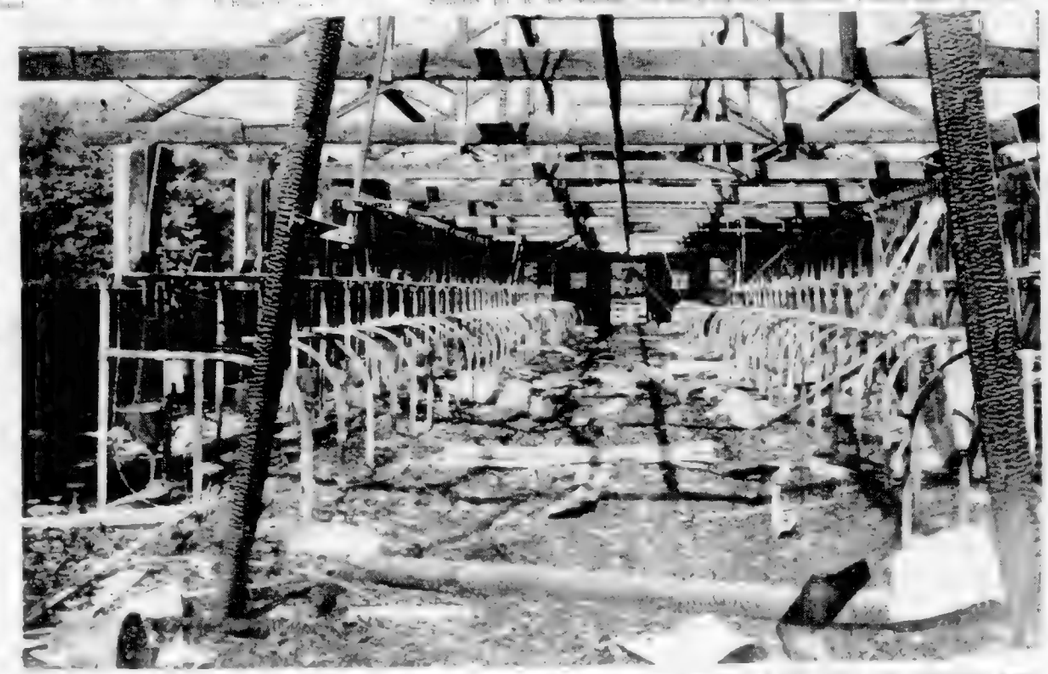
The Challenge to the B.C. Police Taxed Their Patience and Resources

Former Assistant Commissioner of the B.C. Police, CECIL CLARK, writing this crime series for The Islander, has changed the name of the central character in this otherwise true account.—Ed.

HEAVY BOOTS CLATTERED down the bunkhouse stairs, as hoarse voices yelled, "Fire! Fire in the horse barn!"

It was about half past nine at night on Dec. 8, 1917; the scene, the Colony Farm, a vast agricultural annex to the Mental Hospital at Essondale, a mile or two from Coquitlam on the north bank of the Fraser.

While firefighters fought to save lives of men and horses . . . the pyromaniac rang in another alarm. That was in the bitter winter of the year and in spite of the fact that police and fire marshal's investigators were on the watch. In fact he worked right under their noses.



Here a man perished, and nine horses died in smoke and fire. But unknown to the fire-bug went about his [illegible] work. Again and again he struck . . . until, inevitably, the investigators got the road and the witness they needed.—ISLANDER photos by Cramer, New Westminster.

Canadian Pianist Finds More Interest in Arts

WINIFRED SCOTT WOOD
Clan Foster photo

Although the climb to the top is slow in England, where recognition comes even more reluctantly to a woman, Miss Scott is kept busy with her teaching, appearances on the concert stage and with the BBC. She has toured throughout Great Britain and has appeared with many well known orchestras, including the London Philharmonic.

[illegible]

For the BBC she finds one must learn quickly. The programme planners expect an artist to learn a concerto within two weeks. In Canada the artist usually knows what he is to play a full season ahead.

In a small country, the artist cannot regard a concert. He must be [illegible] bringing his programme and this calls for an enormous repertoire, great variety and diversity.

"Canadian children, incidentally, are very lucky compared to English children, musically speaking. They have so many more opportunities to perform here. In Britain, there is a children's orchestra, but the standards are so high, and the opportunities so few compared to the large population, that very few children ever have a chance to be heard.

"In other words, in Britain there are so many professionals, there is no chance for the amateur."

Island Dancer Due With Ballet Russe

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

Of the thousands of children who take ballet lessons in Canada very few become long enough to enter ballet companies. Opportunities are few.

But when the famous Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo comes to Victoria this month a Chemainus girl, who used to practice dancing in the room at home that became of the featured dancers with the company.

She is Viola Crucil, daily [illegible] to Ballet Russe [illegible] the Metropolitan Opera Ballet and the Radio City Rockettes.

Viola's first dancing lessons were given by her Russian [illegible] Mrs. G. E. [illegible] and later by Pamela Webb, who was sent up to Chemainus by Eleanor Clough.

TRAVELS TO VANCOUVER

After she graduated from Duncan High school Viola went to Vancouver to study at the Bill School of Dancing [illegible]. Women June Roper, another well-known dance teacher, gave her special [illegible] arrangements for her to study in Seattle under Wendy Lesson.

[illegible] were in Vancouver in the Theatre [illegible] Stars and she was chosen to appear [illegible] Alan Jones show at the Pacific National Exhibition.

Then came her first big break [illegible] book style and was noticed by a talent scout who gave her an introduction for an audition at Radio City Music Hall.

To quote a newspaper article from a scrap book: "She did [illegible] and applied for an appointment at Radio Music Hall preparing to wait with hundreds of others. Four weeks after she got the job and soon took star parts."

And now her position hangs in Radio City with other star dancers.

Along the way Viola mastered Al Moonee and [illegible] Pavlova and at Metropolitan Opera [illegible] hours from home in Brooklyn and at one point a Brooklyn paper claimed Viola as a local belle.

She is dancing her way [illegible] of all New Yorkers, the paper said [illegible] her sensational ballet routines at the famed Radio City Music Hall.

Canadian papers [illegible] say about her.

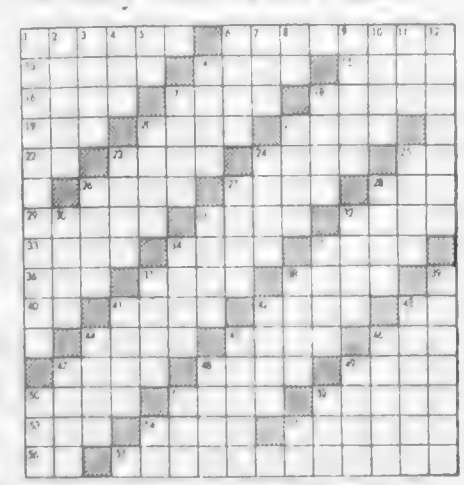
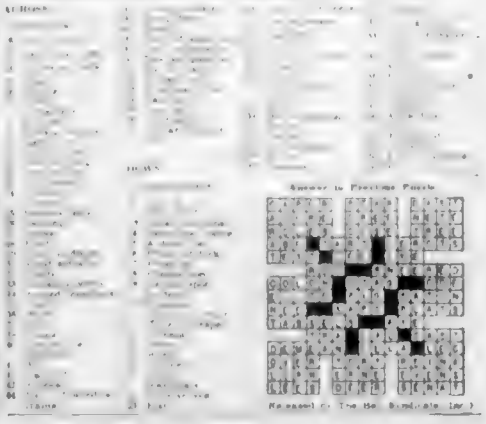
The Daily Cross-Word Puzzle . . .





THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Most of us are victims of rather than victors over time. People who live in the past only are dismal and despondent. People who live in the present only are burdened and bothered. People who live in the future [illegible]. Men who are chained to the past [illegible]. Men who are chained to the present are drudges. Men who continually daydream are either cowards or Micawbers. Successful men use yesterday as experience, plan for tomorrow, and work hard today.

Which is worse, regret over yesterday or worry about tomorrow? Lloyd George was out walking with a friend. As the friend followed Lloyd George through a gate he failed to close it. [illegible] had been of a lesson he had learned from an old doctor: "Always close the gates behind you." When Churchill came to power he buried the bitter past. If we quarrel about yesterday, we lose today.

Missed Romance

[illegible] "We waste half our strength in a ceaseless regretting. We sit by old tombs in the dark far too long."

Without a Dream

[illegible] when "we stop driving the car." 4. Be grateful. Nothing is more important than to cultivate gratitude. 5. Pray always. "Pray without ceasing." 6. Don't postpone life. Do it now. It was written of a failure:

"He was going to be [illegible] ...
[illegible]"

For good success this year 1. Live positively, don't "take counsel of your fears." 2. Live unselfishly. Anxiety usually comes from "Istrain." 3. Let God take the strain. Trust in God. Lord Dawson claims that serenity only comes [illegible]

Now in use is the new $400,000 warehouse of MacDonald's Consolidated on Viewfield Road. It replaces the old five-storey warehouse on Herald Street which was destroyed by fire last January. The new one-floor building, with 58,000 feet of floor space, is double the size of the old structure. Pictured in the new warehouse is Loyal Lang on straddle truck talking with Johnnie McCallum, warehouse foreman. (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Kipling Would Have Said:

'Supine UN Incompetent'

[illegible] "Kipling has been through several generations, something like the tribal prophet of ancient times," said Sir Robert [illegible], former member of the India Council in London, veteran of long political service in India and the Middle East and authority on world affairs.

"Imagine what a tower of strength Kipling would be to us now if we had him in the fullness of his power. He would be scoring with vitriolic wit the treaty breakers, the double-crossers, the pilferers of kingdoms, the pinchbeck dictators, the crazy gangsters who try to plunge the world into war, and the deluded advocates of 'world government' ... as a cure for tension between peoples.

[illegible]

"He would have pointed out with keen but tolerant understanding the debilities in the United States constitution that impede the adaptation of U.S. foreign policy to changing world conditions.

[illegible]

"International morality does not exist under UN guidance, and the high purposes stated in the charter are mocked when UN policy in matters of grave importance is directed by a two-thirds majority in the assembly, secured by partisan blocs."

Good Lesson ... ... For Victoria

San Francisco Gives Facts

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The lack of any compilation giving economic and industrial statistics of the Greater Victoria area has long been a bone of contention among those who want to see orderly development of the area.

Comments in this column recently that something of the sort was needed urgently brought a response from the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

The research department of that organization has sent me a copy of its economic survey and yearly review of the San Francisco and Bay area, a 36-page publication bristling with facts and figures of a revealing nature.

To anyone making up a similar survey for the Greater Victoria area the San Francisco publication could be a valuable guide.

It gives not only the social and recreational advantages of living in the Bay area, but also provides vital information on transportation and its cost, population trends, local taxation, family budgets, income groups, costs of local public utilities, manufacturing data, world, national and local markets, education and civic projects.

Although the Victoria Chamber of Commerce has neither the funds nor the research department to do the job, it could be tackled by that body with the help of and from the local civic administrations and with the co-operation of the B.C. department of trade and industry and other local organizations in fact-finding and editing.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

A question often asked of this column is whether the interference problem caused by a new TV outlet has ever appeared before since the Canadian United States border.

The answer is yes, with a vengeance.

In Barrie, Ont., TV stations received two American networks on channels 2 and 4. Then came a private station on channel 3, wiping out both networks for [illegible] transmitter.

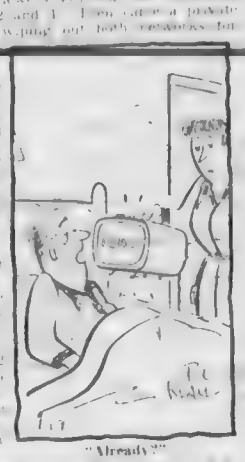
Citizens threw eggs at the owner and went to Parliament but it was found that nothing could be done. In Victoria fortunately, it looks as if CHEK TV's transmitter is going 80 miles north, which should bring channel 5 back in full.

* * *

There's plenty of meat on the TV menu today.

The main course are Odyssey, the CBS answer to Wide Wide World, which debuts at 1 p.m. on channels 11 and 12 with a look at Vancouver City New and Ed Murrow's See It Now on race-troubled Clinton, Tenn. at 4:30 on channel 11.

Channel 12 begins the Melbourne Report at 2:30. Wide Wide World features Helen Keller, Marian Anderson and Eleanor Roosevelt on channel 4 at 4 p.m. Charles Christopher Parker appears in [illegible] on channel 4 at 7 p.m.



"Already?"

"COMPLICATIONS"
The $64,000 question for years has been—"Shall we sell first or buy first?" (1) If we sell first, we must, as a rule, give possession in 30 days and will that be enough time for us to find the home we have in mind without compromising on our requirements? (2) If we buy first, we must, as a rule, provide our down payment in 30 days, in which case we may be forced to sell at a price or terms that we would not like to have to take—or perhaps we won't sell in time. (3) If we decide to build a new home we have more time to sell our old home (providing our contractor will wait for his down payment and take a chance, along with us, on the sale of our old home). But then,—if by some chance we sell—right away, what will we do for 2 or 3 months, after we have given possession and have to wait for our new home to be finished? If we are lucky enough under these circumstances to get good accommodation for that short a period, we might have to move to a different school district in the middle of the term. A double move?—with 3 kiddies?—not so good—as a matter of fact, it's a heck of a problem!" Douglas Hawkes have the answer to your problem. New 2, 3 and 4-bedroom homes with basements, designed to your precise needs, are available on the sweetest arrangement you could dream of. Thirteen Fairfield locations to choose from. Treed Esquimalt area near Gorge Vale golf course and other locations—or build on your own lot. All homes planned to individual requirements and cost bracket. Terms engineered to your circumstances. Full information gladly given if you will please phone Mr. Leonard Thomas at Douglas Hawkes Real Estate, 4-7128 (after hours, 3-… or 4-7128), 406A and … Royal Trust Building, 612 View Street.

Japanese Seek Elvis 'But What's Pelvis?'

TOKYO (NANA)—The Japanese, who learn much about the Western world via kinescopes, have inaugurated a search for their own Elvis Presley.

They're crazy about that man with the hair on the verge of blinding him. They buy his records in abundance. They'd love to develop their own Nipponized version of same.

Candidate No. 1 for the Japan-Presley title, one Michiya Mihashi, does have the wooden jaw, long hair and sideburns of Presley. But there the resemblance ends.

Presley lurches and leaps with the joy of the uninhibited. Mihashi is so bashful in front of a mike, even a spectator feels pain. Mihashi shuffles on stage in a man's kimono, strums his samisen (a three-string cat-skin guitar) and, obviously embarrassed, sings folk tunes—Japanese folk tunes. His audience, country folk involved in the "Where's Elvis?" hunt, overflow the aisles.

Candidate No. 2 is Kazuya Kosaka. He has one disadvantage at the outset: can sing.

A slightly incredulous fan in the audience summed up the Japanese Presley problem.

"Ah," he said, "you mean this Plesri sings, plays a guitar an wiggles like one of our stripteasers—all at the same time? Very interesting. But what is this 'Pelvis' he has for a nickname?"

Gasoline Hike Doubtful Here

Although a hike in the price of gasoline has been forecast for the United States, Victoria representatives of the major oil companies have not heard of an impending boost here.

The U.S. increase was forecast following an increase in crude oil price. Increases are also indicated for heating oils, both industrial and domestic.

Much of the oil used in Canada is Canadian and the price rise may not apply, a spokesman for one of the big oil firms said last night.

At Cowichan Bay

Caged Wanderer Held in Isolation

By COURTNEY TOWER

Christian George Hanna, whom no country wants, is caged in a cabin aboard a tramp freighter at Cowichan Bay and barred from talking to persons interested in his plight.

The 23-year-old "man without a country" stowed away on the Norwegian ship Gudveig in October, 1955, at Beirut, Lebanon, and was found a day later. No country has allowed him to land in 15 months of roaming the seas, and he has been locked in a cabin or a jail whenever the ship is in a port.

A Daily Colonist photographer and reporter were barred from seeing him "for his own good" by Captain P. K. Gjerpen, who said he was acting under orders from a Vancouver woman lawyer who is working to get Hanna a home, and apparently shuns publicity.

"If too much is made over him he might get spoiled," said the captain, who admitted he considered Hanna "a headache." "He might think he can get things too easy."

Hanna's problem is that he has no immigration or identification papers, thus no country will have him. His plight received widespread publicity when the ship was in Vancouver recently.

Capt. Gjerpen said that immediately after that, when the Gudveig moved to New Westminster and since it came to Chemainus, a "blackout" has been clamped down on further news about Hanna.

The captain said he could tell reporters as much about Hanna as they needed to know.

Hanna stowed away aboard the Gudveig 15 months ago, was found a day later and has been on the ship ever since—this being his third look at Canada from the porthole of his cabin—the captain said.

He claims his homeland is French Somaliland, but that he was born at sea and has no nationality.

"That's his story and he sticks to it," said Capt. Gjerpen.

His reason for stowing away was given as: "He just wanted to change ports . . . He thought he could stow away and get off at the next port the ship came to."

Hanna is likable, well-behaved, has no education and no training that the captain knows of.

When the ship is at sea, he is "free like the rest of the crew. I put him to work a bit to give him something to do and it helps pay his board."

Capt. Gjerpen said agents for the Gudveig have spent much time and money already trying to find Hanna a home, probably back at Beirut.

"They will succeed eventually, but the troubled situation there now makes it more difficult," he said.

The 8,230-ton Gudveig, which brought pipe for natural gas lines to British Columbia from the U.K., will complete loading lumber at Cowichan Bay and sail from there Monday. It goes to Chemainus and then Port Alberni for more lumber, leaving the latter city probably Saturday for Britain.

Further efforts will be made there to get Hanna ashore somewhere. But it is expected he will be making the return, four-month trip, seeing Canada for the fourth time from his lonely cabin porthole.

Three Scouts Trying First Class Journey

By LIEUT.-COL. R. GIRARD
District Commissioner
Victoria District

The First Class Journey is the last test that a Scout is required to pass before he qualifies for his First Class badge. The journey is set by the district commissioner or his appointee. It covers all the work that a Scout has done.

He is required to hike 14 miles, keep a log of his journey, cook his meals and sleep in the open. This weekend three Scouts from Sidney and Cadboro Bay Sea Scout Troop are trying their journey.

Each of these boys is accompanied by a Scout who is gaining experience in camping prior to taking the journey himself.

* * *

The Green Plume Court of Honor will meet on Thursday night at district headquarters at 8 p.m. Main topic of discussion will be requirements and standards to be adopted for all future First Class Journeys. All Troop Scouters should attend this meeting.

* * *

Rover Scouts of the district and the Girl Guide Sea Rangers held a hi-fi dance at Scout headquarters on Saturday night. Rover Henry Pylypa was in charge of the arrangements. Rover H. Harrison assisted. Around 40 Rovers and Sea Rangers were in attendance and several Rover leaders and their wives. Rover Derek Hirons of North Quadra was responsible for the music.

* * *

St. Philip "B" Pack met at the home of Akela Grace Paulin for a campfire party on Jan. 3. Twenty-one boys were present. This was the first occasion that the boys wore their new uniforms and the Pack looked smart.

Randy Paulin, at the piano, and Douglas Gilbert, at the drums, led the Pack in carol singing. The cubmaster taught and directed campfire songs assisted by Baloo, Doreen Jamieson. Games were played in the rumpus room followed by refreshments.

The district executive has asked Mr. R. Gilchrist to organize a district conference for early March. This meeting will be open to all group committee members, ladies' auxiliaries and Scouters. It is planned to make this an annual event if it proves successful.

Topics chosen for discussion groups will be as practical as possible to help everyone better understand his job. Further details as to time and place will be announced later.

* * *

The objective of Victoria district for 1957 is an increase of 20 per cent in Cubs, Scouts and Rovers. It is estimated that by July there will be 3,000 uniformed members.

In order to reach this goal 200 more leaders, of which one-third should be ladies, will be required, and about 10 locales found in newly-developed areas.

There are five to six groups in the process of formation. Unfortunately there are hundreds of boys waiting anxiously for vacancies in the 50 existing groups.

However, it is felt that with the co-operation of the public, unselfish work of the group committees, enthusiastic effort of the leaders, increased establishment of assistant district commissioners and district Scouters, our objective will be attained.

What better way to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the movement than by making it possible for hundreds of our boys to realize their dream of joining the followers of Baden-Powell.

I wish to extend to all my friends and colleagues in the district best wishes for a year of happiness, health and prosperity, and good Scouting to all.

Noise Can Be Cut Down

Readers inquire for soundproofing methods to help to eliminate noises from play rooms. Complete soundproofing is difficult in existing houses, but satisfactory results should be gained through one of several procedures.

Floor joists and partition studs allow sound to travel through them as electricity flows along a wire. Insulation stops or impedes sound. Picture W shows a typical first floor over a basement.

We assume that the basement ceiling is not plastered. If the basement is to be used as a playroom, a new, insulated ceiling will prevent the travel of noise to the rooms of the first floor.

First, nail seven-eighths inch rigid insulation lightly to the joists. Insulation is made in widths that allow joints to be placed at joists. Use only enough nails to hold the insulation.

Then nail 1x2 or 1x3 inch wood furring strips on the insulation over and parallel to the joists with nails at least three inches long.

Space them about two feet apart along all furring strips. Finally, nail half-inch rigid insulation to the furring strips. Plaster can be applied, or the insulation itself can be of a decorative type so no plaster is needed.

Picture X shows an attic floor above bedrooms or a first floor above a basement. We can assume that plaster is present as shown. If a playroom is to be made in the attic or basement, insulation can be applied over the existing plaster.

Nail seven-eighth-inch rigid insulation to the joints through the plaster. Use only a few three-inch nails at joist locations to keep the insulation in place. Joist locations can be found by tapping the plaster. A solid sound is heard over joists.

Then nail 1x2 or 1x3-inch furring strips against the insulation over joists with three-inch nails and about two feet apart. Finally apply one of the decorative insulation materials to the furring strips.

Picture Z shows an effective way to decrease sound transmission through floors, which should be used as houses are constructed. Apply half-inch rigid insulation to the sub-floor. Nail it lightly in place. Next apply furring strips as explained. Apply the finish floor to the strips. Set false 2x4 joists between the two joists as shown. Apply decorative insulation or plain insulation and plaster to the false joists.

Picture Y shows a typical partition between rooms of a house. Sound transmission can be greatly reduced with rigid insulation and furring strips applied as shown, and previously explained. The exterior insulation can be plastered if preferred, or of a type that can be painted or papered the same as the other partition surfaces of the room.
